U. S. Plans Limit on Meat Buying

MEATLESS DAY, RATIONING ON WAY IN NATION

Wickard Proposes Program To Keep Consumption at 10-Year Average.

'NO EXTRA STEAKS'

Plan Calls For Two-and-Half Pounds a Week Per Person, Secretary Reveals.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—President Roosevelt today summoned to the White House Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, WPB Chieftain Nelson and Price Boss Henderson for a conference on the problem of the rising cost of living.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Americans will be asked by the government soon to forego the extra steaks and chops they are able to buy with their record-breaking pay envelopes, and in about four months all meat will be rationed.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced last night the food requirement committee had decided on rationing as the best method of assuring an equitable distribution of meat.

Meanwhile, a conservation campaign, possibly including "meatless days," will be instituted to limit civilian consumption of red meats to about the same average amount as has been eaten per capita during the last ten years.

"It will give our civilians approximately 2½ pounds of meat per person per week," Wickard said. "It is an adequate meat supply. When you add in the increased supply of poultry, and cheese, and dry beans we have, it provides a top-notch protein diet for us."

In discussing the rationing decision, he said:

"We ought to manage the supply so that the housewife who can't get to the store until afternoon won't be forced to do without; so that everyone has a chance to buy his fair share of the total."

Woman, 74, Falls In 50-Foot Well; Injuries Slight

BUCYRUS—A 74-year-old woman residing near Galion escaped serious injury and drowning last night when she fell into a 50-foot well at the home of her daughter in Bucyrus.

The victim, Mrs. Effadel Decker, had stepped on decayed wooden boards that covered the well at the home of Mrs. Bessie Brewer, 320 North Sandusky avenue, where she was visiting. The boards broke and she fell to the bottom.

Mrs. Decker was able to stand up in the well, where the water was neck-deep and she remained there for 25 minutes until rescued by city firemen. Efforts of her family to reach her failed.

She was taken to Bucyrus City hospital and is still confined there with a slight head injury and other bruises.

REFUSED TIRE

Gov. Bricker Told Board Has Less Than Enough To Go Around.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A Columbus rationing board disclosed today that Gov. John W. Bricker had been refused authority to buy a new tire for his automobile.

Bricker, though eligible for tires under office of price administration regulations, was refused the tire because "we have less than enough tires to fill applications," one board member said.

Single Men Face Heavier Draft Calls

Hershey Orders Greater Draws on Unmarried Registrants.

While draft boards throughout the nation today were ordered to classify every man between 20 and 45 by Oct. 16, state selective service directors were instructed by Maj. General Lewis B. Hershey to arrange induction calls so that married men would not be drafted in some localities while single men were still uncalled in others.

The selective service director said state officials should arrange their calls on local boards "so as to place the heaviest load right now on boards having the most single men or men with collateral dependents only."

This speed-up in classifying men, the selective service director said, must be made because "the serious military situation" requires that the selective service system be prepared to fill calls in 1943 which "will be equal to or in excess of the monthly calls made in August, September and October of this year."

Richland county's three draft boards have already begun their classification and all indicated today that they expected to have enough men from categories one and two to fill their September and October quotas.

Meanwhile Col. C. W. Goble, state selective service director, predicted that married men in Ohio living with their wives but without children will not be drafted "for several months," according to present induction schedules.

He said the present supply of single men without dependents, single men with partial dependents, married men not maintaining a bona fide family relationship and men married when induction was imminent or since Dec. 8, 1941, should be adequate to fill induction calls "until about December."

Gobel further added that the re-classification of married men with children, and living with their wives, will not begin until authorized by state headquarters.

The classification of men ordered today will tend to level off

GETS RACE JOB

W. J. Michael, Bucyrus, Takes Blecker's State Post.

Walter J. Michael, Bucyrus Democrat, was appointed today by Gov. John W. Bricker to the state racing commission to succeed George H. Blecker, Mansfield attorney, who has served on the commission since its creation in July, 1933.

Blecker was appointed as one of the original members of the commission by former Governor George White. He served a one-year term and was then reappointed to serve a full four-year term.

In 1938, former Gov. Martin L. Davey reappointed Blecker for a full term which expired today. Blecker served as chairman of the commission during his second term.

The racing commission is composed of two Republicans and two Democrats. The position pays $1,250 a year. Michael's term begins immediately and extends to June 28, 1946. He is president of the Ohio Locomotive Crane company.

Not Mistreated By Japs, Mansfield Missionaries Say on Return Home

Tells of Hardships Of Others While In Compound

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles concerning the experiences of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Matti who arrived in Mansfield yesterday after being interned for six months by the Japanese in China where they were missionaries at the outbreak of the war. The second article will appear tomorrow.)

By ESTHER SMITH

An American missionary and his wife "who never expected to get back from Nanking—at least until after the war—" reached Mansfield yesterday afternoon to make their home here for the duration.

Interned by the Japanese for six months, beginning on the day after the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, Rev. and Mrs. Charles Matti, missionaries representing the Society of Friends, were not permitted to read a newspaper headline, hear a radio broadcast, or learn the existing state of affairs outside of the Friends Mission compound where they were held prisoner.

"What little news we received, we learned by word of mouth," said Rev. Matti, as he eased down into a chair at the home of his sister, Mrs. E. C. Jenkins, 426 West Third street, to recall the days of internment. "And it was always bad news," he added.

Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Matti . . . . back home.

"But," he went on "we were more fortunate than some of the other foreigners in China. We were permitted to stay in the Quakerage, our own five-acre compound. We had plenty of food, and we didn't really want for anything except freedom to continue our teaching and to go about the city.

TENTH OF LABOR OFF JOBS DAILY

Manufacturer Says High Pay, Overtime Responsible For 'Next Great Problem.'

By BETTY PRYOR
(UP Staff Correspondent)

CLEVELAND — Absenteeism is America's next great labor problem, F. C. Crawford, president of the Thompson Aircraft Products company, a defense plant manufacturing valves for airplane engines and other machine parts, said today.

Crawford estimated that 10 per cent of American workers are absent from their job every day—a problem which he attributed to overtime and high pay.

He told a group of newspaperwomen, on tour of the nation's war industries, that his company was trying to keep production unhampered by absenteeism by requesting workers to ask for time off in advance.

The newspaper women yesterday heard similar criticism of ab-

New Drive to Sell Bonds Starts at Theaters Tonight

The stage was set today for the opening of Mansfield's "10 Per Cent Month" campaign in which a special committee will try to get all industrial firms to sign up for the purchase of war bonds through the wage deduction system and to meet a September quota of $587,000.

The campaign will open this evening with special programs at all Mansfield theaters at which theater-goers will be urged by civic leaders to purchase bonds

Mansfielders Bid Farewell To New Army Contingent.

Selectees in the first of three draft contingents scheduled to leave Mansfield in the next three days marched down Main street this noon headed for Union station where they were cheered by a large crowd of Mansfielders gathered to see them off for an Army reception center at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Today's group, one of the largest to go, was sent from Board 1. Tomorrow another contingent from Board 2 will leave followed on Thursday by a group from Board 3.

This is the second month in which Mansfield area selectees left home to enter the service directly after having two weeks' furloughs. Previously, the men were inducted when they left the city for their final physical examinations.

$2,000,000 In Mail For Dependents of U. S. Soldiers.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — A war department official disclosed today that about 20,000 checks representing more than $2,000,000 in accumulated payments to dependents of army men were placed in the mails during the past 12 hours.

An additional 10,000 checks will be distributed next Saturday.

FIGHT BREWING ON POLICE JOB

Council to Get Legislation For New Clerk; Chief Hints He's Opposed to It.

Fireworks are anticipated for this evening when city council will be asked, under an administration-inspired resolution, to create the post of clerk in the police identification bureau and the subsequent naming by Mayor W. J. Locke of a woman to the position.

Police Chief Thomas M. Bell, when asked today if the job was being created on his recommendation, emphatically declared "NO" and indicated he is opposed to such a step. Meanwhile, Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals is continuing his plea for the appointment of at least one additional traffic patrolman.

Unofficially, it is understood that a young woman now on a public payroll, is slated for the clerical assignment if the resolution wins council's approval.

Monthly salary of $100 is stipulated in the legislation which also requests the transfer of $325 from the general fund to the identification bureau.

Clare W. Kyler, formerly on traffic duty, yesterday was named assistant to Identification Officer Ernest C. Fuller, filling the vacancy created when Patrolman Paul Martin was inducted into the army.

According to long-established rules of procedure, the resolution cannot become operative until 30 days after passage.

Willard Woman, 101 Last July Taken by Death

WILLARD — One of Huron county's oldest residents, Miss Mollie Graham, who observed her 101st birthday on July 2, died last night at Municipal hospital after a brief illness.

Miss Graham was born July 2, 1841, on a farm which later became the site for Willard.

Proud of her sewing ability, Miss Graham had served women from the Willard vicinity as a seamstress for more than 50 years.

For the past several years she had been acting as nurse for her sister, Mrs. Jennie Rumbaugh who is 95. Mrs. Rumbaugh was removed to Municipal hospital after Miss Graham was taken there.

About nine years ago, Miss Graham made full arrangements for her funeral. The body has been removed to the Fink Funeral home, pending funeral services.

ALLIES BOMB LAE AGAIN

Fighting Renewed at Kokoda as Enemy Launches Strong Attack.

(By Associated Press)

GENERAL M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—Allied fighter planes roared above the Milne bay jungles of eastern New Guinea today heavily strafing any Japanese remnants left by the veteran Australian land troops who were mopping up the enemy.

A severe night attack was made on the Japanese air base at Lae, 400 miles to the northwest, and skirmishes on land developed at nearby Salamaua. Other sharp fighting was reported at Kokoda at the base of the towering Owen Stanley range half way to the most advanced Allied base at Port Moresby.

The known Japanese surviving the Allied ambush at Milne bay were pushed back into a narrow peninsula north of the bay. Day long reconnaissance flights failed to uncover any evidence of Japanese troops, installations or stores beyond in the thick jungle. The pilots, however, saw three damaged barges and three tanks bogged in the muck and mud, all mute evidence of the stoutness of the Australian land forces.

Gen. MacArthur's bombers dropped ten tons of explosives on the Lae airdrome, leaving it smoking and battered.

United States B-17 and B-26 bombers delivered the attack on Lae, starting fires visible for 30 miles and damaging a number of grounded planes. The enemy was caught by surprise because no planes rose to intercept and only meager ground fire was thrown up.

The Aussies at Milne bay reported the Japanese abandoned large quantities of material. In one spot, 50 dead enemy troops were found.

The belief was expressed that the Japanese who fled by warship Saturday night had been hard pressed, because the enemy seldom leaves bodies, for religious reasons, and because valuable

PLOT BARED

Belfast Police Find Huge Cache of Explosives.

BELFAST—(AP)—Police declared today that a great arms and explosives dump captured near here Sunday night was to have been used by the outlawed Irish Republican army in armed attacks on United States and British forces in northern Ireland.

A police statement said the special manifesto issued by the IRA calling the presence of United States forces in northern Ireland an act of aggression made it clear that "this illegal organization has been preparing for attacks on members of the armed forces of the crown, police and United States forces stationed in northern Ireland.

Police said 17 persons had been detained for questioning as all available officers concentrated on investigation of a plot which, they said, had reached a point where the organization was able to amass explosives enough to wreck half this Ulster capital.

TOJO RULES JAP FOREIGN OFFICE

Takes Control as Togo, Who Negotiated Russian Pact, Resigns Post.

(By Associated Press)

Japan's Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo took over the foreign ministry today, tightening his control of Japanese war policy and dropping the diplomat who negotiated the Tokyo-Moscow neutrality pact.

A Japanese broadcast said Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo, former ambassador to Russia and Germany, resigned.

As foreign minister, Togo had repeatedly affirmed Japan's pledge of friendship with Russia, but it was not immediately clear whether his resignation meant a change in Tokyo's attitude, possibly as a prelude to an attack on Soviet Russia.

Recent Chinese and London dispatches have stressed Japan's intention to invade Siberia this fall, presumably at the height of Adolf Hitler's campaign against Russia in the west, and upwards of 500,000 Japanese troops have been reported massing in Manchukuo along the Siberian frontier.

Observers also pointed out that Japan's mysterious withdrawals

COURT RULING BALKS PICKETS

Action Credited With Reopening Mines In Ohio Strike.

COSHOCTON—(U.P.)—A county-wide coal strike, which has tied up production in all of Coshocton county's pits for a month and a half, ended today as most miners returned to their jobs.

Three of the five leading coal operators in the country said that mines were operating at 100 per cent of capacity and that only a few truck drivers still refused to haul coal.

Issuance of restraining orders by Common Pleas Judge J. C. Daugherty, which limited picketing near the strikebound mines, was said to have been largely responsible for the miners returning to work.

PUSH 8 MILES ACROSS EGYPT MINEFIELDS

New U. S. Air Forces Swing Into Action as Major Desert Fight Looms.

SMASH AT TRANSPORTS

Armored Units Lead 140,000 Axis Troops in Clash Near El Alamein.

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO—An eight-mile German drive into the minefields on the southern flank of the Al Alamein line in Egypt, rimming the Qattara depression, was reported today as new United States air forces went into action in what appeared to be a developing major battle.

Against another German thrust, evidently seeking a soft spot in the center, the British were said to have held firmly.

The newest American medium bombers on the North African front—B-25's like those which bombed Tokyo—went into their first action with complete American air crews in a bombardment of Axis transport columns while supporting American fighter pilots dispersed unusually large German dive-bomber formations.

Armored vanguards of perhaps 141,000 Axis troops between El Alamein and Bengasi were said to be locked with light British forces, in what may be the opening phase of a struggle for mastery of the Nile valley, Suez and the whole Middle and Near East.

Although there was no official word the new assault was the opening of a new German offensive, there was no doubt in unofficial but well-informed circles that German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had begun a large-scale offensive, synchronized with the great battles in southern Russia.

Fighting precipitated by an early morning attack by "strong enemy columns" raged throughout yesterday along the southern end of the British front in the western desert and Allied bombers entered the fray last night to smash at concentrations of Axis vehicles in the battle area, British headquarters said today.

United States medium bombers inflicted heavy damage on the British and Indian Guerrillas Stage Burma Raids.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—A spokesman for the Indian government today said that British and Indian guerrillas, operating in force, have driven deep into Japanese-occupied Burma in successful commando-like raids.

Indian army regulars and trained tribesmen were said to have been carrying out prolonged operations, destroying Japanese installations and hampering Nipponese moves.

The spokesman said that the British and Indian guerrillas, in carrying the war to the Japanese, have been given "invaluable" assistance by the Naga tribesmen who live on the Indian-Burmese border.

VICHY—(U.P.)—A newspaper report from German-occupied France said that 27 persons had been killed and 60 wounded when the LaRochelle-Paris express train was attacked by a British plane Friday night in the third similar raid in a week.

The report, which came from a German-controlled newspaper, said that all casualties were French.

Deadline Rule Perils City Council Action on Airport

Legislation authorizing the construction of a new hangar and the appropriation of $1,500 for building a 2,500-foot slag-filled runway may be imperiled if council tonight invokes a 1936 resolution requiring that all matters to be considered by filed with the city clerk not later than 4 p. m. on the day preceding any council meeting.

Under the deadline rule, Mayor W. J. Locke can circumvent delay by attaching a letter to the airport proposals and others declaring them emergency measures demanding immediate consideration.

The airport resolutions and several other pieces of legislation were presented to Clerk Robert Black this morning by Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner, who explained he was not advised of the time limit soon enough to draft the issues for filing before 4 p. m. yesterday.

Some time ago Roy Vaughn, member-at-large, declared it unfair to expect council members to consider legislation presented at the moment that body convenes. Yesterday Mayor Locke instructed the city clerk to receive no proposals after 4 p. m. on the day preceding council meetings, Vaughn immediately endorsing enforcement of existing rules.

Granting of a license to the Harrington Air Service for the new hangar will permit work to

Allies Emphasize Attack as War Enters Its Fourth Year

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
(United Press Foreign Editor)

LONDON — (U.P.) — This fourth year of war begins today for the United Nations with the accent on attack.

It is the year for the second front.

How soon that second front will come can not be estimated. But there are other sectors where the Axis might be engaged in major battles. One of those is Africa.

Offensive strength from America now is pumping into the scattered battlefronts of the world. It is felt against the enemy spearhead on the sweltering beaches of the Solomons. It is massing on the hot Egyptian desert at El Alamein. It is striking by the skies over western Europe and it is bolstering the Red army with machines before Stalingrad.

But we have made only the meagerest beginnings.

A second front success and all that it means is up to America probably to an extent far greater than we realize at home.

This may prove the grimmest year of the war. It would be foolish to suggest that the tide of conflict is going to turn suddenly toward us or that the lessons of Dieppe point to anything except how tough the going will be.

The British frankly are fed up with a losing war. They are not war weary. On the contrary they are firmer and more determined than ever to accept

Axis on the El Alamein-Qattara line before dark yesterday and damaged enemy transport in strong attacks on Axis land convoys in the desert.

Four German divisions were said to form the spearhead of the Axis attack.

Parachute troops which arrived in North Africa at the same time as the 164th division also are believed to be attached to this force.

Two Italian armored divisions, the Ariete and the Littorio of 8,000 men and approximately 150 tanks each, also supply some of the enemy armor. There are six Italian infantry divisions of 10,000 men each in North Africa.

Except for air operations, the headquarters communique covered the same ground as a communique issued earlier in London by the war office, reporting that in the central sector an enemy attack was repulsed.

Of the air operations the headquarters communique said:

"Although dust curtailed air operations, a number of successful bombing raids were carried out on enemy transport during the past 48 hours.

"In air combat yesterday our fighters destroyed at least seven enemy aircraft in addition to many on the ground.

"Last night our bombers carried out heavy and successful raids against concentrations of enemy vehicles in the battle area."

Today's Cairo communique added no new details to the picture of the ground fighting, beyond the fact that "strong enemy columns" were engaged. But it reported that Allied bombers made heavy and successful raids on concentrations of Axis vehicles in the battle area and fighters destroyed seven Axis planes in the air and "many on the ground."

The Italian high command issued its shortest communique in months, reporting aside from bombing operations only "activity of advanced units" and the taking of "many prisoners."

Admit Nazis Deepen Stalingrad Wedge

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Russians said today the Germans had deepened a wedge toward Stalingrad from the southwest and infiltrated that city's northwestern defenses, but emphasized the casualties suffered by the invaders all along the front.

Scattered details reported in the mid-day communique indicated German's loss of at least 48 tanks and about 2,000 killed.

After fighting in which about 400 Germans were killed, "one Soviet unit withdrew to new positions" before the Kotelnikovski-Stalingrad pincer claw, the Soviet information bureau said.

Red army men still menacing the Axis flank within the Don bend waged both offensive and defensive warfare and reports from the Caucasian battlefields were highlighted by a declaration that Soviet cavalry recaptured a Nazi-occupied village south of Krasnodar.

German naval parties are attempting to raid the Caucasian coast in conjunction with the overland drive from Krasnodar, but these are being smashed, a Pravda dispatch from the Black sea fleet declared.

The Communist party newspaper said Russians were striking at German-held ports with gunboats, torpedo boats and planes.

Tremendous new forces of men and machines were reported moving up to bolster the Axis assault upon Stalingrad.

Pravda said the Germans, hurrying ammunition, food and fuel to their forces fighting between the Don and Volga, were using squadrons of transport planes.

A searing heat wave beat down upon this front and Soviet dispatches said the only relief found by soldiers fighting across the sun-parched Steppes was in the partial shade provided by smoke rising from the battlefields.

Water was becoming more and more of a problem for both sides because normally filled streams had run dry.

Dog's Barks Send Would-Be Burglar Fleeing From Home

Barking of a dog thwarted an attempt to burglarize the home of R. M. Young, 399 Sherman place, at 1 a. m. today, according to a report to police.

Mrs. Young said she was awakened at that hour by strange noises and the incessant barking of the family pet which was in the house. Investigation disclosed that a rear window had been broken and its latch unhooked.

Mr. and Mrs. Young then made a tour of the yard, discovering an abandoned step-ladder leaning against the sun parlor in the rear of the home.

The strange noises were made by the would-be burglar as he fled through hedge and other shrubbery when he became alarmed by the dog's barking, in the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. Young.

Togo Exit Forecasts Drive On Reds, Belief

(Editor's Note: This analysis of the significance of the resignation from the Japanese cabinet of Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo was written by Robert Bellaire, United Press manager in Japan until the outbreak of war. He returned to the United States last week on the evacuation ship Grispholm.)

By ROBERT BELLAIRE
(Former UP Manager in Japan)

Resignation of Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo marks the exit of the last important civilian from the Japanese war cabinet and now foreshadows an imminent Japanese attack on Russia in the east.

The removal of Togo from the Tokyo political scene also furthered the ambitions of Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo to entrench himself as undisputed dictator of the island empire.

Togo, who made his reputation as a diplomat by keeping peace with Russia when he was ambassador in Moscow in the troublesome days of 1940, undoubtedly is opposed to war between Russia and Japan.

His resignation, therefore, may indicate that Japan's militant clique has decided that the time has come to deliver a stab in the back to Russia.

If the Japanese attack on Russia is imminent, Togo has outlived his usefulness to the army, although his resignation may be a personal, futile protest against further extension of Japan's far-flung battle fronts.

Mild-mannered, weak-spoken Togo was included in the Tojo cabinet for two reasons, both of which would cease to exist if Japan attacks Siberia. These reasons were:

1 To maintain peace with Russia until it became convenient for the army to invade Siberia.

2. To help engineer the double-cross at Pearl Harbor. Togo was part of the stage setting designed by the army to lead Americans to believe Japan was ready to compromise and afraid of war with the United States.

Togo never has been admitted into the army's discussions of high policy and there is considerable evidence that he did not know of the attack on Pearl Harbor until several hours after the first bombs had been dropped.

For four hours after the attack had been announced by the imperial headquarters, Togo repeatedly informed Ambassador Joseph C Grew that he knew "nothing about it."

only a complete victory. But the fury that marked their stand against the blitz as well as the inspiration that speeded up the factories in order to aid Russia has now died down.

They lack inspiration for the moment; something that will inspire that still unwritten war song for which London has waited for three years.

They have had an easy time compared with the Russians, the Germans and the people of the occupied countries. It hasn't been easy as in America but nothing now compares with the worst phase of the first world war.

There are other battlegrounds than Europe, of course. And in recent days attention has been turned to Africa where the armies of Lieut. Gen. Harold Alexander and Marshal Erwin Rommel are ready for another round of the gruelling desert war.

Should Alexander win that battle and start the Axis back to the west for the third time since the African fighting started there is some belief that the time might be ripe for a grand Allied attack which would be designed to clear the Axis out of Africa.

On the highways and byways of Britain today American uniforms are seen in increasing numbers. The Americans in Britain are excellently equipped. They are laying down the groundwork for a vast armed force. But there is a distorted idea in Britain as well as America regarding the forces available for various tasks.

If the second European front is delayed until spring, the Allies are expected to concentrate on the battle of the Atlantic, including the supply lines to Russia and Africa, and on the western European air front.

There is reason to believe that the battle of the Atlantic is going better.

The Royal Air Force is still carrying the burden of the air front, increasing its striking power and extending its range but the American Flying Fortresses are adding a new pattern of daylight attacks. It is expected that American fighters soon will go into action to aid in forcing the reluctant Luftwaffe to accept battle in the west.

It was necessary to have special permission from the Japanese authorities and I obtained it to go to the dentist on several occasions and also to visit a friend in a hospital." Mrs. Matti also had been given permission to visit the dentist three times.

None of the indignities inflicted by the Japanese upon many other foreigners as well as the Chinese were felt by the some 20 residents of the Quakerage, four of them American, the missionary said.

He cited in particular the case of his friend, John Benjamin Powell, for 26 years a newspaper editor in China, who became emaciated and lost all of his toes by disease as the result of Japanese prison conditions. Powell returned to America last week on the Gripsholm, the same diplomatic vessel that brought the Mattis to the United States.

Rev. Matti said he "hadn't known what kind of treatment to expect at the hands of the Japanese" after listening to the broadcast that fateful Dec. 7, when Pearl Harbor was attacked.

"We knew of the awful things that had happened in Nanking when the Japanese captured the city in 1937," he said, adding that "we were prepared for almost anything."

The broadcast was one of the last heard by the missionary while in Nanking for his radio was confiscated the day afterward. Rev. Matti dryly pointed out that the radio "was tagged, at the request of Japanese authorities, for return after the war."

Rev. Matti, who with his wife had lived through the bombings of Shanghai before Nanking fell, was one of the two Americans in the city to hear the broadcast. The next day all foreigners were officially notified by the Japanese that a state of war existed between America and Japan.

"We were visited by four Japanese officials," said Rev. Matti. "Two of them we knew through their previous visits to the Quakerage. A third, the Japanese interpreter, had often attended our Sunday school although we suspected him of being an agent.

"They informed us we might remain at the Quakerage but that we could not leave the grounds for any purpose unless we obtained a permit. Then they asked for the radio but they did not search the house then or at any later time."

"We had to sign a set of rules," Rev. Matti went on. "The two most important ones restricted us from sending sealed letters and from holding meetings of any kind at the compound. The Chinese, however, were allowed to come individually to the Quakerage for prayer and counsel and did so up until the time we left there two months ago."

Tomorrow: Hardships among Chinese and the return home.

BOMB SHATTERS CLEVELAND CLUB

Porter Escapes as Explosives Wreck Building Wall.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— An investigation of the bombing of the Comedy Vaudeville club in Cleveland was launched today by detectives who were called following a blast which rocked several square miles.

Police said the home-made bomb was placed in the doorway of the building, and the explosion blew out a wall and shattered windows over a wide area.

Thomas Manning, club porter, was the only person in the entertainment center at the time of the bombing and miraculously escaped injury from the flying debris.

JAP REMNANTS HIT FROM AIR

Difficult communications hid the exact strength of the remaining enemy units.

Australian troops fighting in the jungles of the narrow peninsula north of Milne bay, at the southeastern tip of New Guinea, are wiping out the scattered enemy units unable to escape by sea from the trap sprung after their landing last Wednesday, a communique disclosed.

Japanese dispositions were tested by ground patrols in the mountainous Kokoda area, 60 miles from the Allied base at Port Moresby.

Skirmishes again developed in the region of Salamaua, on the northeast coast. Bombers struck at enemy ports on both sides of Salamaua—at Buna, the beachhead of the Kokoda salient, as well as at Lae.

Of the Buna raid the communique said: "Our heavy (four-motored) bombers attacked an enemy camp from a low altitude, starting fires and silencing anti-aircraft positions.

"Ten tons of bombs were dropped among grounded enemy aircraft, buildings and installation at Lae," it was announced. "Five large fuel dumps, many buildings and many aircraft on the ground were destroyed. Fires were visible 30 miles away. The enemy did not attempt to intercept our planes. All our planes returned."

An Allied spokesman said the Australians fighting about Milne bay, had destroyed three Japanese tanks. He disclosed the invaders had moved only about a half dozen of the armored machines ashore before learning they could not be maneuvered effectively on the swampy terrain.

He was unable to estimate the size of the Japanese forces remaining on the peninsula, but said they were fighting only defensively and had lost the initiative throughout the area.

Walter Lucas, a London Daily Express correspondent accredited to General Clowes' command, said it was unlikely that Allied casualties there would be high.

Japs Counter-Attack Outside Kinhwa

CHUNGKING—(U.P.)—A Chinese communique reported today that Japanese troops at Kinhwa, in Chekiang province, have launched counter-attacks against Chinese forces converging on the city.

The Chinese, however, still held their newly won positions around the city, including the towns of Tangki, Lanki and Lungyu, the communique said.

Lanki is 12 miles northwest and Tangki 20 miles west of Kinhwa, the last eastern seaboard air base town still in Japanese hands.

An earlier report by the central Chinese news agency said Chinese troops were closing in on Kinhwa from four directions and that the city's fall was expected soon.

U. S. Planes Fire Jap Positions In Burma

CHUNGKING — (AP) — United States planes attacked the Japanese airdrome at Myitkyina in northern Burma yesterday for the second day in succession, a communique from Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

Objectives of the bombers, which had a fighter escort, included Japanese barracks, a warehouse area along a railway and the railway terminal.

"Two large fires and at least three small ones were left burning along the railway in the main storage area," the communique said.

"Direct hits were scored on the Japanese barracks and several fires were started in the area."

All the planes returned safely.

Japs Launch Attack On Kokoda Front

LONDON —(AP)— The Japanese have launched a strong attack on the Kokoda front of New Guinea, mountainous no-man's-land between Japanese-held Buna and the Allied advanced base at Port Moresby, a Reuters field dispatch said today.

Some Australian advance posts were abandoned under vigorous Japanese pressure, but the Allied positions were being restored after heavy fighting, the dispatch said. The main defense line was reported intact.

Although the invaders struck hard, the Australians escaped being trapped and many casualties were inflicted in close fighting, the dispatch said.

Deadline Rule Perils City Council Action on Airport

start immediately on a plane shelter 90 feet long and 80 feet wide on a site 50 feet east of No. 2 hangar on the north boundary of the airport. Expansion of the civil aeronautics school and reception of Army and Navy aviation cadets, with a consequent demand for more training ships, make the new hangar necessary, airport officials say. Construction will be under the supervision of Service Director Fred B. Wolff and City Engineer W. C. Statler, according to the resolution.

At a council caucus three weeks ago unanimous agreement was reported on a proposal to transfer up to $2,500 from an appropriation of $5,000 made last June, for construction of a new temporary runway which, as needs arise, can be used as a taxi strip when hard-surface runways are installed.

Other tardy legislation calls for the transfer of $1,250 to the police motor equipment maintenance fund supplementing a $1,000 transfer of June 16 for gasoline, oil, repair, etc. Another resolution will ask for $300 to be used by the street department for cutting weeds, eventual cost of which is assessed against the abutting property owners.

Several sidewalk construction resolutions also were dumped into the council hopper by Solicitor Wagner.

Included in legislation which likely will be considered tonight is the Davis road proposal under which Chevy Chase and Edgewood road property owners ask that one block of Davis road be vacated. It has been indicated that J. M. Dickson, original owner of the Woodlawn plot, will vigorously protest the vacation program.

BOMB JAP BASE

NEW DELHI—(AP)—RAF planes bombed and machinegunned the Japan base of Kalewa, on the Chindwin river in Burma, scoring hits on buildings and river boats Aug. 30, a British communique said today.

From where I sit....

by Joe Marsh

WHEN I drop into Sam Abernethy's store, I usually come away with something worth rememberin'.

Sam's our town's most successful storekeeper and he's not one to do much talking, unless he figures he's really got something to say.

Last evenin' he said plenty.

Stranger was in the store. And Ben Ryder, Homer Bentley and some others were talkin' about the scrap collection when this feller sort of horned in . . .

"I hear these scrap collections are a lot a bunk," he says. "Fact of the matter is, this junk they're gathering ain't no use for makin' steel. Just a waste of time gettin' it together . . ."

At that point Sam steps in.

"Jest a minute," he says, fixing him with a cold and steely eye. "May I inquire where you got them so-called facts?"

The stranger hems and haws, and Sam advances on him grim and unsmilin'.

"Name your authority, sir," he says. And he wasn't kiddin'! "Tell us, where did you get all this inside, private information?"

Well, sir, I never saw Sam so mad since Lem Martin's dog chased the cat into the pickle barrel. And I guess I never saw a man crawfish out of a place fast as that fellow did.

Thinking it over afterwards, I came to the conclusion that Sam's got the real system for handling folks who throw facts and figures around free and easy like.

F'instance, I've noticed there's some pretty fancy fact and figure jugglin' done by some of those who oppose the right enjoyed by millions of decent people to drink a friendly glass of beer when they want to.

Lately I've been asking these folks the same kind of questions that Sam asked that rumormongerin' stranger. Try it yourself, next time you hear anybody making derogatory remarks—whether it's against the war effort . . . or just against beer.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

(Note: Meyer Davis has probably directed orchestras in the presence of more genuine celebrities than any other American bandleader. Here he writes about things that happened "a century ago—before Pearl Harbor."—D. K.)

Meyer Davis Says—

Just People: Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is the only hostess in the land who pays her music bills in advance . . . Doris Duke Cromwell engages the band six months before the date of the party and when asked why, answers simply: "I wonder!" . . . The Gene Tunneys want the tunes of hit shows played at their infrequent parties and when the show just opened that week, it makes for an orchestration headache . . . Mussolini would dance only to the strains of a waltz . . . John D. Rockefeller, jr., always helped push the piano into its proper place . . . Edward T. Stoesbury would play the drums and yell for one of his guests to lead the band, Sammy Kaye might like to know.

Embarrassing Moments: 1937 in the White House. We're swinging with "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm." Young Franklin, jr., yells to the drummer: "Hey — your light's out!" In goes the plug and the illuminated painting on the drum shows a charming young lady, clad in a smile. Chief Usher Muir walks over to the bandstand through the laughter and pulls the plug. The band plays on.

A Hunk of Fee: Mrs. Peter A. B. Widener's party for her daughter, Joan Peabody. Seventy-five men playing continuous music, with a shift out for relief. Five pianos, thirty violins, twelve saxophones. A check for $10,500 for one night's work—but work!

Dream Band: Just ten years ago, I picked my idea of a dream band for a national magazine. Wanna go back with me? Paul Whiteman was the leader . . . Red Nichols, Henry Busse, Louis Armstrong on the trumpets . . . The sax section had Rudy Wiedoft, Andy Sanella and Merle Johnston . . . Roy Bargy, Eddy Duchin and Harry Rosenthal on the ivories . . . Mike Pingatore for the banjo chair . . . Tommy Dorsey and Miff Mole were the trombonists . . . Clarinet, Benny Goodman . . . Violins had Joe Venuti, Nat Brusiloff and Lou Raderman . . . Pepi Palkovich on the bass . . . Eddie Lang on the guitar . . . George Olsen beating the drums.

Bridal Stuff: My music has walked down many wedding aisles and I am certain of my oddities when I state that this was America's oddest wedding party: At the wedding of a Texas tycoon, the parson was presented with a bucking bronc . . . each of the ushers was given an airplane and each of the bridesmaids was presented with orders for a high-powered speedboat although most of them lived in prairie country.

Honest, Mr. Ripley! Calvin Coolidge had few parties at the White House, but at those which had nothing to do with affairs of state, he would show his expertness on the mouth organ . . . Nicholas Longworth could spot me a yard of catgut on any fiddle —really a fine musician . . . Andrew Mellon never attended his own parties; that is, he would merely stay long enough to greet the guests and then retire.

Who Do You Know? It's a nice old bromide which states that you're judged by the company you're in—or something to that effect. I owned Le Paradis, a nice enough little club, in Washington. One night I walked in with two handsome young men and the three of us were arrested the moment we entered the room. Washington had a new law, it seemed. Empty glasses with ice were not to be placed on the tables. It didn't matter if there was no liquor in the club—the empty glasses plus the ice constituted a setup. "We know you're Meyer Davis," said the polite arresting officers. "Who are these gentlemen with you?" I introduced them—the son of the President of the United States and the President's nephew. I got a warning instead of an arrest. It pays to know etc. etc. etc.!

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—I had the unusual experience today of hearing a pretty little movie star refer to herself as a "lemon," a reference which bore out, though she wasn't aware of it, her thesis on temperamental foreign movie stars.

Coons

The actress was Marta Eggerth. Miss Eggerth is blond and fetching, and she sings with the high ease and lilt of a bird. In European pictures she was a big star, in the days when European pictures were not devoted to Hitler propaganda, and recently she was a star in New York in the musical "Higher and Higher." In Hollywood pictures, so far, she is a very little star but quite an authority on temperamental foreign actresses.

In her two pictures here to date, "For Me and My Gal," and "Presenting Lily Mars," she has played temperamental actresses who get in the way and hair of Judy Garland.

SHE says she doesn't mind that, except that she wonders why foreign actresses are all supposed to be temperamental.

"You must have had some unusual foreigners here at one time to give Hollywood that impression," she says . . . (Shades of Pola Negri, Jetta Goudal, and the other old-time exotics! Yes, they were unusual).

"But the truth is," says Marta Eggerth, "in Europe the players never had time to be temperamental. We had to work fast. No actress could throw things, and tear her wardrobe to shreds in a fit of anger. If she did, there wouldn't be any more—and we all knew it.

"I think some foreigners got that reputation because they do not make themselves understood clearly. They do not know the language so well, and they do not understand what is said to them either."

Miss Eggerth is Hungarian-born, and married to Polish singer Jan Kiepura. When Kiepura made movies here some years ago he had an A-1 reputation for temperament—but Mrs. Kiepura says it isn't so. "Our best friends," she declares conclusively, "are the people we work with—that should prove it, shouldn't it?"

AS FOR Marta herself, she sang all morning in a gypsy number, part of a stage show which Judy Garland is watching from a box. She sang and sang, for one rehearsal after another, smiling and dancing as she sang, before the camera, and kept it up, fresh and bright, for the take.

"Mind it?" she says. "I would like to do it a hundred times, to make it better. I would like to be treated like a —a lemon. So that by the end of a day they would squeeze all the juice from me and I would have nothing more to give!"

To Marta, you see, a lemon is a citrus fruit and nothing more. A lemon is not a sour apple, a flop-eroo, a flat tire, a busted hack, or a goon. Marta, with her smile and her accent, does not know the slanguage so well. You can see how this would work out—if she were really treated like a "lemon."

PROBING WRECK

BALTIMORE, Md. —(INS)— The FBI, army intelligence and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad today pressed an investigation into the derailment of a train of tank cars near Aberdeen, Md., which caused a fire destroying 280,000 gallons of oil.

While the blaze was isolated after a 12-hour battle, investigators were not able to approach the scene until late last night because of the intense heat. The fire was expected to burn itself out by noon.

SPURNED SUITOR GOES BERSERK WITH REVOLVER

Slays Woman Who Turned Him Down, Wounds Her Sister, Then Kills Himself.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO—A rejected suitor was dead today, a suicide, after he had slain on a Chicago street the woman who refused his attentions, shot and wounded her sister and then had forced another woman at gun-point to drive him to Elkhorn, Wis.

The dead man was John Gabricle, 31, of Chicago. He shot and killed Virginia Bodziack, a divorcee, in view of scores of war plant workers shortly after Virginia and her sister, Leoni Bodziack, had left the factory of the Appleton Electric company.

Leoni fled screaming and Gabriele shot her twice, seriously wounding her, then pocketed his gun and ran away.

Miss Irene Schwendtseger, who knew Gabriele well, told police today that an hour after the shooting, of which she knew nothing at the time, she was driving her car when she saw Gabriele in his car.

"He got out of his car and into mine," she said. "He told me to drive to Elkhorn.

"Then he told me the story of the shooting. I started to turn around but he placed the pistol against my head and ordered me to drive on."

She said Gabriele rented a cottage near Elkhorn and then told her:

"I might as well do a good job. I'm going to kill you and myself."

"I screamed and ran through the door," Miss Schwendtseger said. "He fired a shot at me as I ran. Then I heard two more shots and ran back into the cabin. He was dead, the pistol by his side."

The young woman was questioned by detectives on her return to Chicago.

Gabriele was said to have been violently in love with Virginia Bodziack and to have threatened her repeatedly after she broke off the romance a month ago.

START WORK ON STORM SEWER

Workmen Begin Construction on Willis Avenue Project; Mark Time on Paving.

Installation of the storm water drainage system on East Second street and South Willis avenue from Hedges street to Ritter's run, as part of the Route 42 resurfacing project, was started late yesterday by the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company.

Diversion of workmen to this phase of the project will delay resurfacing operations sufficiently so as not to interfere with Labor day parade arrangements which include a march around Central park, paving company representatives and city officials said today.

On Wednesday, traffic over U. S. Routes 30 and 42 will be diverted temporarily while paving crews complete the resurfacing under the Pennsylvania railroad overpass at the junction of Ashland road and Park avenue east. This phase will necessitate considerable hand labor as the huge asphalt spreading machines are too wide to permit operation through the underpass driveways.

Diversion of traffic will be necessary for only a few hours, the paving company reported, and temporary route markers will be placed.

Work of laying an asphalt top began 10 days ago on Ashland hill and the new surface is completed to the subway.

U. S. Diplomats In Ringside Seats For Tokyo Attack

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— An informant who was in a position to know what occurred in Tokyo during the internment period for Americans there, said today that members of the U. S. embassy staff had front-row seats for the Doolittle raid of April 18.

Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and his staff were about to go in to lunch when they noticed six fires in different parts of the city. Then the sound of anti-aircraft fire was heard.

Three American bombers were sighted, low over downtown Tokyo. The diplomats did not know at the time they were American planes but their hopes that they were were confirmed the next day by the Japanese police.

The Japanese newspapers announced that nine American planes had been shot down but when no photographs of wreckage appeared the Americans realized that none had been downed.

RAPS 'BACK SEAT DRIVERS' WHO CRITICIZE U. S. WAR LEADERSHIP

(By International News Service)

CINCINNATI — "Well-intentioned but inadequately informed back seat drivers" who question the war leadership were assailed today by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, national administrator of veterans' affairs.

Addressing the 43rd National Encampment of Veterans of Foreign Wars, General Hines pleaded for full confidence in and cooperation with the military and naval authorities. He said that military and naval problems could be determined only by men trained in such affairs.

"They have access to information which we lack," he said. "They should be allowed to make their own decisions, unhampered by well-intentioned, but inadequately informed back seat drivers.

"We must give our full confidence to our leaders. They cannot tell us their plans. To do so would be warning Hitler and the Japs about our moves—and that would cost the lives of many American boys."

General Hines, bringing greetings to the veterans from President Roosevelt, warned against over-confidence and said that sacrifices, hardships and dangers must be endured to bring about the "military defeat of the enemies of freedom and democracy."

Reporting on veterans' affairs, General Hines told the assembly that employment of war veterans no longer was a problem, and that the institutional population of veterans had decreased from 16,000 two years ago to 11,500 on June 30.

World War death and disability payments totaled $264,000,000 last year, he reported, while the number of Spanish-American war veterans shrank from 152000 to 146,000.

'COURAGEOUS' LEVY WANTED, OFFICIALS SAY

Measure Would Raise Regular Income Tax, Then Assess General Expenditures.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The treasury, reaffirming its belief that the people want a "courageous" tax bill, today presents to the senate finance committee a plan for increasing the war tax burden on individual incomes without disrupting the efforts of Americans to save for the future or pay off debts.

The treasury's proposal to include in the new tax bill a "spendings" tax comes at a time when the senate bill is $1,100,000,000 short of the "conservative" house revenue figure, $6,270,000,000. The senate finance committee has indicated determination to make up the deficit and perhaps go beyond the house figure—closer to the treasury's original goal of $7,700,000,000.

Chairman Walter F. George (D., Ga.) announced that Treasury General Counsel Randolph Paul would present the proposed "spendings" tax today so that the committee could consider it along with final action on individual income rates.

"In general," the treasury told the committee, "this (spendings tax) plan would call for pushing the regular income tax as high as it could go without imposing executive hardships on debtors, and then using the spendings tax to get the rest of the income tax money that was needed."

Statements last night by Paul and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., shed further light on the administration's stand on the tax situation.

Paul placed the treasury unequivocally in opposition to the Ruml "pay-as-you-go" system of income tax collection. The plan, proposed by Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the federal reserve bank of New York, to put taxpayers on a current basis, was said by Paul to be objectionable for three reasons: 1—It is too complicated; 2—It would not, in fact, put taxpayers on a current basis; 3—it would "forgive" a year's tax liability with the greatest benefit going to persons with the biggest income.

Morgenthau, in a message to the American Bankers association, said more than half of 1942 national income must be devoted solely to war purposes, and forecast that Americans face more drastic control of consumer spending, extension of rationing and other "new sacrifices."

While school boards in Crawford county and other sections of the state are employing women as school bus drivers because of the manpower shortage, Richland county districts will have only one woman bus driver this term and she was on the job last year. She is Mrs. C. M. Kuhn, who drives for her husband in the Union Rural district north of Mansfield while he works at another job. "She handles the bus as well and has as little trouble with pupils as any driver we have," commented Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools.

Approval by council likely will be necessary, city officials said today, if Kenneth Beal, 37 Archer street, recovers $14.40 which was deducted from his city pay as being the amount paid him by the state of Ohio for his attendance at summer maneuvers with Co. F, Mansfield's unit in the Ohio State Guard. Adjustment is not being made on the August last-half payroll. Lester Linham, superintendent of the garbage disposal system, today said: "I did simply as I was told to do by my superiors," in explaining why the amount was taken from Beal's pay two weeks ago. Beal appealed to Service Director Fred B. Wolff and Mayor W. J. Locke before submitting his claim to Gov. John W. Bricker who, in turn, directed it to Col. Donald Pancoast, Ohio's adjutant general, for decision.

"Thanks for your war effort" wrote the War department to Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commisioner, in a letter received today expressing regret over his failure to meet physical requirements for service in the Army medical corps. Wild, in volunteering his services recently, recited having suffered permanent injuries in an auto accident several years ago and this history was construed as constituting cause for rejection "for active service at this time." For several years he served with the Arkansas national guard and his old outfit now is on duty in Dutch Harbor, Alaska, according to recent word from ex-comrades.

AGREE ON BILL

Legislators Reach Accord on Soldier Vote Measure.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Senate and house conferees today reached a speedy agreement on the absentee voting bill for members of the nation's armed forces, with members of the lower chamber accepting every change made by the senate.

The house conferees receded in their demands for elimination of a senate amendment which would waive payment of poll taxes, as a voting requirement, by members of the armed forces.

The only other point in question was an amendment which would permit service men and women to vote in primary as well as general elections. This also was accepted by the house without change.

Maj. Hal Roach Weds, Too Busy to Take a Honeymoon

DAYTON — (U.P.) — Major Hal Roach of Culver City, Cal., pioneer film producer who crashed the moving picture industry by answering a help wanted advertisement, was such a busy bridegroom today he did not have time for a honeymoon.

Roach, producer of the famous "Our Gang" comedies, was married yesterday to Lucille Prin, Los Angeles secretary, at the Patterson Field home of Col. and Mrs. Franklin C. Wolfe.

"A honeymoon?" Roach asked. "I should say not. I had to get to work at 8 a. m. this morning."

In an application for a marriage license, Roach gave his age as 50 and Miss Prin's as 29. The marriage is Roach's second. His first wife, the former Margaret Nichols, died two years ago. He has two children.

Roach has been at Wright Field for three weeks, assigned to the training film production laboratory.

PASTOR VICTIM IN STABBING

Assailant Why Used Pocketknife Charged With Murder.

MILWAUKEE—(INS)—A parishioner who fatally stabbed his pastor with a pocketknife because the pastor allegedly had attacked the former's 19-year-old sister was charged with first degree murder today.

Victim of the stabbing was the Rev. Benjamino Re, 48, for 10 years pastor of the Giuliani Memorial Evangelical church. The assailant was Joseph Sgro, 33, a layman of the church who surrendered to a neighbor, a retired deputy sheriff.

The stabbing was witnessed by the victim's wife who told police Sgro, after calling on the pastor and shaking hands with him, drew a pocketknife and stabbed him twice, once in the heart.

Fendrick, president; John Shaffner, vice president and Helen Lang, secretary-treasurer. The 1943 reunion will be held at the same place the last Sunday in August.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1942.

Unheard remark: "I can drink or leave it alone—so I always leave it alone."

Despite censorship, it's no secret that Germany is in for a spell of bomby weather.

Vindication was long deferred, but it now appears that those few who protested against taking the hitching rails away from the east side of the court house were the foresighted ones.

Entering Final Third of 1942

TWO-THIRDS of this fateful year has now been lived through and as September is entered there is at least a somewhat clearer understanding of the big job that lies ahead before the blessings of peace can be restored in this country or among peoples in other parts of the world.

Any optimistic idea that the war can be ended this year has been dispelled by better understanding of the military strength of the Axis powers and by realization that none of the United Nations, with the exception of Russia, was prepared for such a war as is now being fought on more than a score of "fronts."

Arousing after the Pearl Harbor attack, the United States has given the first eight months of this year to feverish preparations for defensive and offensive warfare, both in augmented manpower and in production of ships, planes, tanks, guns and other essentials of modern war.

Lack of realization of the enormity and urgency of the task, on the part of some officials and workers, has handicapped the national war effort thus far—and may continue to do so during the remaining months of 1942, but there is evidence of steadily growing appreciation of the danger involved in delay.

The estimate of approximately 4,000,000 men already inducted into military service, out of an eventual 10,000,000 suggested as a probable need, indicates the inevitable draft of the 18 and 19 age group into service, as well as some of those who have thus far been exempted because of dependents.

Sacrifices by civilians, which have not yet been severe, are expected to increase within the next few months and there will also be growing opportunities for home front activities in civil defense.

Continued regular buying of War Savings Stamps and Bonds will be among the responsibilities of all who earn wages or salaries, or who have other income that can be diverted to this purpose.

Such revelations of cruelty as have been made by Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, and other Americans who returned on the Gripsholm, and knowledge of Axis atrocities in Europe, emphasize the fact that no civilian sacrifices are too great to be willingly made in support of the nation's fighting forces which must be depended upon to win the war.

Horn-Honking By Ride-Sharers

PROMOTION of an anti-noise campaign, such as is being conducted in a number of cities and was once talked of in Mansfield, seems to be more of an individual than a community activity.

Possibly not more than one driver in a hundred makes a nuisance of himself by needless and untimely horn-blowing, and it is that one upon whom an impression should be made—if possible—rather than on the 99 motorists who are thoughtful of others.

It is unlikely that there are many motorists who would maliciously awaken residents of an entire neighborhood—children, adults and invalids alike—by giving several sharp blasts on the horn during the night, or at an early morning hour, to attract the attention of a share-rider, yet this is being done with increasing frequency in many parts of the city.

It is the resident of the neighborhood, rather than the thoughtless honker, upon whom stigma rests for this annoyance, which is proving particularly exasperating to industrial workers whose employment is at irregular hours and who have difficulty getting back to sleep after having been aroused by horn-honking or an over-loud radio, or other neighborhood noises.

Along this line, Lima suggests that "the silly after-wedding, horn-tooting parade through downtown streets" should also be terminated, but Mansfield has grown beyond that phase of juvenility—except in rare instances.

It is suggested that persons at whose home an early morning stop is made to pick up a worker, ask the driver to step up to the door and ring the bell instead of honking his horn—so as not to arouse all the people living within a block.

Make Sure You are Registered

EARLY announcement is made that Mansfield residents who are not already registered to vote at the November 3 election can register, or transfer, by going to the board of elections office in the courthouse basement anytime (during office hours) between now and October 5.

Registration or transfer is required of first voters who will reach the age of 21 before election day, newcomers to the city, voters who would otherwise be eligible but who did not vote at the last two general elections, and voters who have changed their place of residence.

State, district and county officials will be elected in November. Unless you are properly registered you will not be permitted to vote—but it will be your own negligence, not an edict by Hitler, that will deny you that privilege.

Kennels Inside the City

EXCEPT for those who live in the vicinity of kennels in which a number of dogs are housed, proposal by Councilman Kyle to sponsor an ordinance designed to ban kennels inside the city limits may not appear important.

Those who live within auditory or olfactory range of a kennel, however, have an entirely different idea about it.

So Councilman Kyle's proposal is probably worthy of consideration, in the event the present nuisance or health ordinances do not cover the point.

Some folks think congressmen haven't the courage of their convictions—but wait till Wednesday, November 4, and they'll show you.

One war worker's bride says she never worries when her husband has to work nights—so long as his good clothes are at home.

THERE'S QUITE A LOT OF BEAR LEFT

GOP Turning to Domestic Issues

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—With no division whatever of political significance so far as carrying on the war to the best of our ability is concerned, and with no important difference, therefore, between the Democratic and Republican candidates this fall, many Republican leaders here are hoping that more Republican candidates will turn their attention to such domestic issues as taxes, waste, etc., in the brief time between now and the November election.

There is much more satisfaction, to the Republican wheel horses, in the attacks by Senator Arthur H. Vanderberg, of Michigan, and Senator Robert Taft, of Ohio, on pork barrel projects, waste of public funds, and taxation based almost as much on social reform and class politics as on revenue raising, than there is in anything being said on other subjects by the titular leaders.

WENDELL L. WILLKIE, nominee in 1940 and therefore technically the head of the party, has been crossed off as almost a total loss in the last few months, so far as building anything for Republican success in the future is concerned. This is not said by those speaking of it in criticism of what Willkie is doing. On the contrary many of them think he is performing a very useful function in the war effort.

But so far as laying any foundation on which a Republican victory at any time in the future, be it in 1944 or 1948, or be it the success of individual candidates for congress, state offices, and on down the political ladder, it is of very little value indeed. In fact, it is regarded as not being political at all, but propaganda—propaganda to the outside world to demonstrate American unity. That part is fine, the G.O.P. leaders admit privately. It sounds wonderful abroad to have President Roosevelt's opponent in the last presidential election workng as hard as he can for the war effort under the president's direction.

BUT meanwhile, something ought to be done, the leaders think, to call the attention of the citizens to the fact that financially and economically the sound party in this country is the Republican opposition, not the New Deal.

They admit, very privately indeed, that they hope for little results of any such criticism in the elections this November. But the people are already beginning to worry about taxes, and particularly to worry about waste of the government's money. The time has passed when the great majority of the people thought, when it occurred to them at all, that a few rich Republicans paid all the taxes.

Everybody is paying taxes now, and, for the first time perhaps, everybody realizes it. Men and women are going to realize it more and more. In short, the sort of speeches that Alf M. Landon made to deaf ears in 1936 would be heeded today, if made by the right critics. And next year is going to provide a still more interesting audience among the electorate. In fact, the interest, and bitterness, is going to keep right on increasing.

So the Republican "regulars" would like to see a start made on driving home the belief that the Republican Party is the only one that can be expected to be financially and economically sound.

Man About Manhattan

Memory Joggers

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Here's something to remember about Eric Von Stroheim . . . During the First World war he symbolized everything that was brutish and filthy about the Huns—and got paid for it. He made scores of pictures, always appearing as the arrogant Prussian heel-clicker . . . Sometimes, even recently, he has been hauled off planes (as at Bermuda by the British) who considered him a suspicious character. Actually, he is very high on Hitler's anti-list, those who are earmarked for destruction can they be but apprehended.

When Stroheim stepped into the role of the maniac (made famous in New York by Boris Karloff) in "Arsenic and Old Lace" it was the first time he had ever acted on any stage . . . This occurred at Princeton. The time was winter, and the steam radiators began to hiss and rattle . . . It was weeks before Stroheim ceased believing someone in the audience had hissed him . . . Actually, Stroheim is an Austrian. Once he was a lieutenant in the Austrian army. But he was an American citizen long before World War I. He likes it in New York, now that the stage fright has worn away, and he lives at an East Side apartment — the same apartment house where most of the FBI stay when they are in town.

HERE'S something to remember about Frank Mendel . . . He gave you some great shows, including "No No Nannette." . . . He, with Larry Schwab, gave you "New Moon," "High Cost of Living." . . . Now he comes back to Broadway with "V for Vickie." . . . I think it's a cheesy title.

It is Mendel who reveals how producers react in a crisis. He had stumbled on a French music show called "The Stork" that was very funny (in France) but far too dirty for American audiences. The idea, as he saw it, was to have it cleaned up and the show couldn't help making a million on Broadway . . . "But," recalls Frank, "this is how I reacted in this particular crisis. With the whole American writing fraternity to draw from I chose Ben Hecht, with a result that "The Stork" wasn't cleaned up at all and was a complete flop."

HERE'S a story that has traveled all the way across the country from Hollywood—which, as you will agree, is the only place it could happen.

It seems that a studio was in a bad way for a new vehicle for one of its money-making stars. The star was appealed to. "Haven't you got a story for us?"

"Why yes," said the star. "It just happens that I wrote a little yarn not long ago. Want to look at it?"

Studio editors looked at it. It was, they decided, slightly terrific. "We'll put some writers on it right away," they announced.

The writers went to work. They took the star's plot, added a few standard situations, and turned in the script for a reading. The star read it and exploded. The studio threw it back for a rewrite. Can you guess what the writers had done?

They had written the star right out of his own story!

Council authorized sale of old city building, corner Park avenue west and Walnut street (site of present Walpark building.)

Asa Leach, 88, Civil war veteran, died at his home, 68 North Adams street.

Rev. G. A. Kienle returned from three-months' vacation trip in the east.

Residential building in Mansfield showed large increase over preceding year.

Miss Louise Dickey returned after spending two months in Europe.

Miss Effie Snyder, Marion avenue, returned from a month's western trip.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Mansperger went to Ravenna where he was to become high school principal.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On Sept. 1, 1886, workers cleared away the wreckage caused by America's worst earthquake east of the Mississippi river. The tremor struck Charleston, S. C., on the previous day causing property damage which amounted to over $5,000,000.

Daily Bible Thought

The spirit of the Lord is upon me: for He has annointed me to preach good tidings to the poor. He has sent me to heal the broken hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind and to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord.—Luke 4:18-19.

Timely Editorial

Armies Make Friends.

Letters from soldiers who have arrived overseas bear no date line but most of them have a paragraph which says: "The people here are very kind and hospitable."

The members of today's A.E.F. have the good fortune to be among people who speak the same language and fraternizing is easier than it was for the men who went to France 25 years ago.

Fighting in a common cause, our soldiers are at once comrades of the people with whom they now are quartered, whether in Australia or in England. This association makes for firm and close ties. It also brings some surprises.

Coming from common stock and speaking the same tongue the soldiers and their hosts are likely to look upon each other immediately as brothers. It may be something of a shock to find that they are alien in many ways but when the first surprise is past it gives way to an understanding that will bring the nations closer together for the years which come after peace.—Canton Repository.

Feminine Superiority.

One more of the many ways in which man is inferior: He can't arrive home eight minutes ahead of the wife and look as if he had been there for hours.—Detroit News.

Axis Shows Strain of Fighting As United Nations Gain Strength

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

ALLIES, INC., took down their shutters for business this week with prospects not quite so blue as usual, which is a cautiously back-handed way of recording that things looked a bit brighter—and this was true both in the crucial European theater and in the Orient.

Not that there had been any big swing of fortune, but there were signs that the Axis powers were beginning to feel the strain of the fierce pace they've been maintaining in their effort to achieve victory this year, before the Allied striking power becomes too great. Into this picture, of course, fits the steadily growing strength of the United Nations.

Now please don't misunderstand me. The enemy is not on the point of breaking up, or anything of the sort. Our dangers are terribly great in the face of Germany and Japan.

Still, the signs of strain undoubtedly are there. And that strain is the symptom which points to coming exhaustion.

That to my mind is the most important development in this fierce race against time. The Allies' hopes of winning without having to wage an interminable war of attrition depend largely on their ability to hold the master gangster on the Russian front during the few remaining weeks until winter comes to stall him.

This means that much hangs on how long the Hitlerites can keep up the terrific speed they've shown thus far—a rate which couldn't be carried on indefinitely by any fighting machine.

MOSCOW reports a continuation of the remarkable hardening of the Red defense. The Bolshevists are holding on the vital southern front, while further up the line they actually are maintaining their smashing offensive against the Nazis northwest of the capital.

While this stiffening of Russian resistance is due in part to their own stout spirit, I believe we must attribute a good deal of the change to a natural weakening of the Nazi offensive.

Several things are working against the Nazis at this stage:

1. Their fighting forces increasingly are feeling the physical strain of this unprecedented offensive.

2. Their communications must be getting into sad state, being greatly over-extended and their transport in the recently captured territory being dependent on war-torn highways and broken down railways which have the wide Russian gauge that doesn't fit German rolling stock.

3. Their war industry at home is slipping, partly because of deterioration of machinery which can't be replaced, partly because of lack of skilled workers, and partly because of shortage of raw materials. We have fresh evidence of this in the known shortage of German warplanes, and a scarcity of gasoline which the Russians report is so bad as to have stalled a large number of tanks in one sector.

Has Hitler the strength to crush Russia before he himself collapses? That's the crux of the matter, and the indications are that he hasn't.

OUT in the Orient the Japs have been getting it from both the Americans and the Chinese in no uncertain manner. General MacArthur's headquarters announce the defeat of an enemy force which landed at Milne Bay, strategic point on the southeastetrn point of New Guinea, uncomfortably close to the Australian mainland. We also have annihilated the Nipponese who tried to recapture the islands which we took in the Solomons recently. And three more enemy destroyers have been sunk or damaged by bombers.

On top of this the amazing Chinese, who just won't be beaten, are running riot in Kiangsi and Chekiang Provinces in an offensive which has carried them steadily forward. A notable achievement has been the capture of Chuhsien, which has the largest airport in China and is within easy striking distance of Japan. Chinese possession of this field presages some moments of hell for Tokyo and other Japanese cities in days to come.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The attention of the Capital has been called to the war effort of little College of William and Mary in historic old Williamsburg, Va., and Congress, civil service and the War and Navy departments are applauding.

William and Mary is setting a pattern which government manpower officials hope will spread to universities and colleges all over the nation.

The William and Mary war work plan, as reported by Rep. Schuyler Otis Bland, in whose district it is located, is briefly to provide that students may work three days a week in war industries and attend classes the other three days.

The plan provides a much-needed supply of first-class labor for war industry; it gives financial assistance to ambitious youngsters; and it helps the school keep up enrollment at a time when nearly all colleges are suffering from the loss of men students.

THE students work in selected industries. During the summer months, some work full time. They earn about $35 a week. They live in the college dormitories and pay around $15 a week for room, board and laundry. Some students will have saved enough by fall to pay their tuition fees before they go on the three-day-a-week schedule.

Candidates must take both the college and civil service health examinations, must be at least 17 years of age, and be American citizens.

Students at William and Mary are working at the naval mine depot at Yorktown, the Newport News shipbuilding yard, and on construction jobs at Fort Eustice.

There is no academic distinction between war work students and others. The war workers naturally are unable to take as many courses as full-time students, but there is no limitation on their selection of subjects and by attending summer school they can be graduated in the regular four years. Working out this four-year course is one of the curricular masterpieces which makes H. D. Carye, director of the war work plan, justly proud of the faculty's co-operation.

THE war work plan does not constitute in itself a basis for deferment from the draft, but students registered under the program are subject to the same deferment privileges as others working for college degrees.

An interesting factor is that college war workers will have the same privileges of post-war readjustment that is provided by law for full time war workers. That is, their jobs will be assured for six months after the war ends.

In addition to everything else, the plan is hailed here because it goes to the root of providing solutions to two major problems: (1) How to build up a backlog of future officer material for the armed forces, if the war is of long duration; and (2) how to make certain of a stockpile of trained youth for the post-war reconstruction period.

The William and Mary war work plan has been operating only a month and the college is not a large one. But it is pointed out here, the college's achievement cannot be measured in numbers. What is much more important is that it has pointed the way.

Chances of Football Injury.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IF YOU HAVE a boy entering high school this fall and you let him play football, the chances are 100 per cent he will get bruised up somewhat during the season.

The chances are one to four that he will receive an injury sufficiently serious to lay him up.

The chances are one to five that he will receive a permanent injury that will last through life—ranging from some front teeth out, a flattened nose, a fracture around a joint that will leave a stiff joint for life, or a cartilage dislocated from a knee, or a fractured pelvis.

The chances are about one in 1000 that he will be killed.

The chances are about one in 10,000 that he will have to have a leg amputated.

The chances are very remote, but I know of two cases, that he will be blinded for life.

High School Players.

In college these chances are about halved. The college player has more mature bones, better protective equipment and is a little more wary. That is why I think football should be prohibited for high school students until at least the senior year.

These statements are made on the basis of a nationwide clipping service that I began to subscribe to last September. I by no means claim they are complete.

If you think I exaggerate, let me quote the report of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, for the year 1941: "One out of every three football players is injured each year. Based on a five-year survey, 100,000 such injuries cost American parents $1,000,000 annually. Between 60,000 and 75,000 boys are temporarily crippled each year and 1,225,000 school days are lost through injuries."

I have records of 23 deaths last year from football injuries—one in college, 14 in high school and eight on sandlots.

The coaches don't like these figures. One of them wrote a very sarcastic article about me last year. The next day one of the players on his team was killed by injury during the game. When interviewed, the coach said that such things constituted only a small percentage considering how many players of football there were in the country. That should have been a great comfort to the dead boy's parents.

But the coaches ought to be careful themselves. There is considerable occupational hazard to being a football coach. Two last year died of heart failure during the game; these were those fellows who had built up such a fine physique through a lifetime of athletics. We all hear football is so good for the health.

I have a record of 11 coaches who suffered injuries as serious as broken bones, or worse, while teaching their pupils how to protect themselves.

Three games in 1941 were called off because one or the other team had injured so many players in action that they could not muster 11 whole men who could stand on their feet.

A Farmer's Diary

Be Tolerant

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

(Don't read this unless you or some of your family have hay fever. Unless you spend a part of every year red eyed, drip nosed, with brash skin and itching ears and a yearning to fight somebody—anybody—you don't know the meaning of tolerance!)

HAY FEVER time is a natural six weeks course in TOLERANCE. If you have hay fever, you tolerate the rest of the world. If you don't have it, you tolerate those who do. We can speak with authority. My wife has it.

Newspapers and magazines mean well—but they're in a spot! Even our home town paper introduced hay fever season with two photos of a pretty girl. In the first she sniffed some plant—in the second she sneezed. A beautiful sneeze, it was, designed to cause a smile, with a write-up carefully explaining that the young lady was not really afflicted . . .

A national weekly magazine came out with an article calling allergies the "disease of bright people." What obvious psychology—what a painful effort to alleviate our wheezes with flattery! Hay fever then, is largely a state of mind, and ought to be forgotten—but not, we judge, until the writer of such an article has collected his money!

Hay fever—a natural racket for makers of air conditioning units, for owners of summer hotels and cottages in pine woods! Hay fever—harvest time for druggists and manufacturers of nose drops! These people profit from sympathetic consideration of the whims of the 'feverish' and have a wink and a clap on the back for that eminent medical authority who advises, "Let ragweed grow. It enriches the soil and prevents erosion!" . . .

Be tolerant—medical men must live! If you get worse call a doctor! He'll be busy, but he'll find time to give you a little something . . .

You learn, of course, if you have hay fever every year, that it isn't the world that's wrong—though it seems that way. It's a wise old world that grins in its sleeve and goes on about matters of life and war—it is you that are wrong.

About all there is to do is to dry your eyes and your dripping nose—give thanks to makers of disposable tissues—and pray for frost. Frost always does come!

SERVICE UNITS TO PLAN DRIVE TO HELP WORK

Crestline Canteen Hopes To Build Special Center For Soldiers.

CRESTLINE — Plans for the collection of donations and the formation of a new schedule will be made by members of the Crestline Service Center unit when it meets today at 8:30 p. m. in the B. of R. T. hall. Mrs. Philip Bausch, president, will be in charge of the meeting.

Service men traveling through Crestline when on leave are provided with coffee, sandwiches and magazines by the center. An average of 200 men a day are cared for through the free will offerings of the people who make the service possible.

At a meeting held last week it was announced that the Gledhill and Kime Lumber company would donate and erect a building for use of the service center, providing ground for its location could be obtained from the Pennsylvania railway at the south end of Pierce street.

Mrs. Bausch appointed William Gush and Ed Jacobs as a committee to contact Trainmaster C. E. Iman regarding the use of the company ground during the duration of the war.

It was at this meeting that Roy Payne, who had previously been elected president, resigned and Mrs. Bausch was elected to fill the vacancy.

Announcement was also made of plans for a dance to be held at the Eagles hall on Friday, Sept. 18, when the price of admission will be a package of cigarets or more.

Duchess Sells Sea Shells as Novel Jewelry

By ADELAIDE KERR
(Wide World Features Writer)

The Duchess of Windsor, whose husband used to be England's most famous traveling salesman, has turned traveling saleswoman herself.

On her visit to New York she had samples of Bahaman shell jewelry which she hoped would interest the American market.

Even in her first "salesman" effort the duchess was "one up" on her famous husband. Edward's activities along that line were confined to "selling the empire" by his personality and charm during his Prince of Wales days. But the duchess let it be known that she wanted department store representatives to see the necklaces, brooches and earrings made of jade, coral and turquoise-tinted shells which she brought with her. (The ebb in tourist travel has caused a marked decrease in their sale in the Bahamas.)

There is nothing on record of orders placed, but the duchess' action is decidedly interesting in the light of her position and her reputation for chic. In the absence of the duke, who was called back to Nassau by labor trouble, the duchess devoted a good part of her New York visit to the hairdresser, dressmaker, dentist, and shopping for her Nassau canteen.

Which Lips Look Best?

What's in a mouth? The poets have raved about every conceivable shape and size of women's lips throughout the ages. One poet will laud lips that are small and prim — another will rhapsodize about a mouth that's full and luscious. Not until you have experimented with your own mouth and tried to change its shape will you ever realize how completely its re-shaping can alter the expression of your whole face.

The Hollywood stars know better than poets how much a mouth can reflect. And make-up experts, who have transformed many a face with a new lip-line, know still more. Experts analyze the mouth in relation to face and personality, and suggest a new pair of lips that expresses a completely new person.

A new transparent strip is now made with various pretty pairs of lips printed thereon. By experimenting with your mouth and the strip before a mirror, you will be able to find the shape of lips most flattering to you. Nor do you have to limit yourself to one new mouth, as you may be able to wear other ones for different moods. But regardless of which shape of mouth you choose, be sure that you keep the corners up-turned at all times!

Wife Wants Husband to Make Will

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 22 years old, fairly good looking, have a nice car, a good job, and have been deferred from the draft because of a slight physical defect. I came to this city several months ago, having been transferred by my employer.

The girl I had been going with at home quit me and is now going with another boy. When I visit the old town, she makes it her business to be away, so I have to make up my mind to forget her. My working hours are from noon until nine in the evening, so it's hard to get acquainted with anyone. Can you suggest some way I can make new friends here, as I've met only one girl since I came and didn't care to see her a second time? G.E.B.

Unless you feel sensitive about not appearing in uniform, when the majority have donned the khaki, you might join the Y. They have plenty of social activities, and unless you have personal letters of introduction, it's about the safest way for a young man to become acquainted in a strange city.

Ask about hiking clubs at their bureau of information. If you can sing or play any musical instrument, a good way to become acquainted with the right sort is to join a choral or musical club. Meanwhile, as you come to know your business associates better, confide in them that you'd like to know some nice girls.

Poor Type of Husband.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Three months ago, my 19-year-old brother married a girl he had gone with for three years. When he first broke the news to Mother and Dad, they didn't seem to care. But recently they voiced their protests, saying they didn't like the girl because she has no money, and Dad wanted us to marry money.

And now they have separated them, and even I helped too, for which I'm terribly sorry. My brother has been on his own since he was 16 and has supported himself right along. To get him to divorce the girl they've given him money and even bought him a new car. Although he loves the girl very much, he's trying to make my parents happy.

They have no grounds for divorce, but my parents tell him to say she trapped him into this marriage. This isn't true at all. What can I do to right this wrong I have done? I want to help them stay together instead of separating. M. P.

I've seldom heard of anything more cold-blooded than the attitude you ascribe to your parents concerning your brother's marriage. Why doesn't he do a little thinking for himself? The girl would have a clear case before the law to sue your parents for alienation of her husband's affections.

* * *

Husband Won't Make Will.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I love my husband dearly, and I am sure he loves me also. But the man has never seen the necessity of keeping or putting our personal affairs in order.

We are middle-aged and neither one is very well, and it worries me a good deal. If anything should happen to him I would be left quite helpless, as our savings account and checking account are in his name. What we have, we have saved since our marriage, and I've scrimped and done all my own work.

How can I broach the subject to him, and have him see and understand the necessity of having our personal affairs in order? We have no property. He does not have a will.

A READER AND ADMIRER.

It's amazing how many letters like yours come to this column. Husbands calmly see their wives face a future for which they have made no provision. The best results are achieved, I believe, in bringing up the question tactfully and talking it over without resentment or nagging.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Before my father could answer Noel struck into the conversation.

"It doesn't matter what he deduces," he said vehemently. "He won't get a chance to take any cheap revenge on Mary. I shall see to that! I haven't been a very good husband to her, but at least I can protect her from that swine, whether—"

I was afraid he was going to spoil his heroic speech by saying "whether she wants my protection or not." But he clamped his lips upon the "whether," and the frown with which my father had greeted my question changed to an amused smile at Mary's harassed young husband.

"You need have no worry on that score, Noel," he said. "In the first place, it would not be Steve's vengeance which would threaten Mary if the truth were known, but that of higher-ups in the gang to which he secretly belongs.

Substitute Document.

"In the second place, Steve will not know Mary was to blame for our finding the paper. Indeed, when he comes back to consciousness he will not miss the document. Inside his shoe he will find a folded paper which he will think is the one he put there."

Noel's "goggle eyes" at this speech were matched by mine.

"Because of your blow, Noel," my father said, "we have all the time we need to make that substitution. We have duplicates of all kinds of papers and seals used for official documents, and an expert copyist is now on his way here.

"He will copy the document we found, which contains certain highly technical specifications, but with slight changes which will make it useless to the people now anxiously waiting to see it, and I will defy Steve to notice the substitution."

"But won't the others notice the change?" I asked my father breathlessly.

"The original traitor, who let it get out of his department, will know," my father said sternly. "Those who receive it may guess what has happened, but will only know with certainty that the document is useless to them instead of being of priceless value.

"So you can see that Mary is in no danger whatever, from Redfield or anyone else. And now I must hurry back to see the expert who is coming. Redfield, attended most capably by Dr. Twitchell, is in no danger, but I don't think he will recover consciousness until the expert's work has been placed in Redfield's shoe."

I knew my father had good reason to believe that Steve's unconsciousness would continue until that was done. Dr. Twitchell would see to that.

Noel Wants to See Mary.

"You will wish to see me later, Father?" I asked.

"Yes," he said, turning back, "and Mary also. But Noel, you will not have to wait unless you wish to"

Noel's face was dark with angry humiliation as the door closed.

"That means," he said, "that he would rather I did not stay."

"I am sure you are mistaken," I told him. "I think he is simply considering your comfort." And although I was by no means sure of my premise, I was glad to see the black frown on Noel's face change to mere bewilderment, gloomy but free from anger.

"I suppose I ought to understand," he said wearily, "but I don't—and can't."

He hesitated for an instant, then spoke with a rush.

"Would you mind letting Mary come in here again—to see me alone for a minute or two?"

Thiamin Is Now Found In Peanuts

By BETSY NEWMAN

Vitamin B is at least six vitamins, says an authority, and it is the most difficult of the vitamins to obtain in abundant quantities. The most widely known member of the "B complex" is B1, or thiamin. A diet containing good amounts of salads, green vegetables, fresh fruit, milk and meat provides enough of this vitamin for the average individual. One cheap source of the vitamin is peanut butter. Two tablespoons of it contains 125 international units. Give it to your children often as it is inexpensive as well as an excellent food.

Today's Menu.

Beef Doves Green Beans
Mixed Vegetable Salad
Peanut Butter Drop Cookies
Tea Coffee

Beef Doves.

½ lb. chopped raw beef
½ cup uncooked rice
½ tsp. salt
Cabbage leaves
¼ tsp. pepper
Few grains cayenne
Brown tomato sauce

Mix beef and rice, add salt, pepper and cayenne. Cook cabbage leaves 2 minutes in boiling water to cover, then in each leaf put 2 tablespoons meat and rice mixture and fold leaf to enclose it. Simmer 1 hour in tomato sauce.

Brown Tomato Sauce.

2 Tbsps. flour
1 cup cooked tomatoes
2 Tbsps. butter
½ cup brown stock

Brown butter, add flour, and very gradually add strained tomatoes and stock. Season to taste and bring to boiling point. You can use bouillon cubes or beef or vegetable extracts dissolved in water, or canned consomme or bouillon for the brown stock.

Peanut Butter Drop Cookies.

1 cup flour
1½ tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
¼ cup fat
½ cup peanut butter
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
⅓ cup milk

Sift flour, measure and sift with baking powder and salt. Cream fat and peanut butter together, add sugar gradually, creaming it in well. Add eggs, well beaten and mix thoroughly, then add flour alternately with milk, and drop from the tip of a teaspoon onto a cookie sheet. Bake at 400° F. from 8 to 10 minutes.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

HUSBAND YOUR HONORS

Acknowledging the well-recognized principle that taking chances may be considered necessary for victory in any contest ranging from bridge to war, all great strategists also proclaim that chances should be avoided except when they stand to gain something. If two alternates are presented, one of them involving a risk and the other no hazard of loss, and each offering the same chance for gain, the gamble should be avoided. That applies to leads away from honors not in three-card sequences or longer, in order to husband their value.

South took a good deal for granted with that grand slam bid, counting on North surely to have the spade K. The king he showed in response to the Blackwood 5-No Trumps, however, could just as well have been in clubs. As near as South could tell, his partner might have held something like five spades headed by the Q-J-10 and the club A-K. If so, the slam would have depended on picking up the spade K by a finesse or drop.

As the cards lie, the grand slam in spades was unmakable except through co-operation from East, who led the diamond 2—away from his J-10 This rode around to the 9, giving the declarer an otherwise, unattainable trick. Leading the suit at all would have cost a trick, as sending forth the J would have built a finesse against the 10.

The second, third and fourth tricks were top trumps, the next two heart tops, the heart J brought the Q and a ruff, then diamonds were cashed. On the heart Q and 10 and the fourth diamond, three clubs were discarded by North, enabling him to finish the hand with the Club A and spade 6

East had no excuse for his diamond lead, when a safer one was available in hearts. Had he opened the heart 3, North could then have been set by a club trick at the finish.

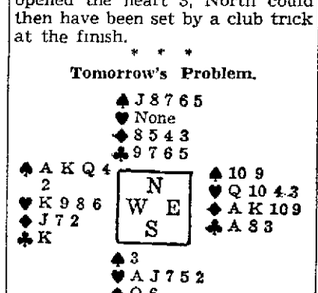
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

If South leads the club Q to the K, takes the heart Q with the A and returns the club 10, how can East find out that South probably also holds the singly guarded diamond Q and therefore manage to make 6-No Trumps?

Women Quitting Old Kinds For It At The Rate Of 5,000 A Week Now!

Takes The Place Of Any White Bread Deficient In Natural Flavor, Vitamins And Minerals Because It Contains More Natural Flavor, Over Twice The Vitamin B_1 And 50% More Natural Minerals

THERE is no other like it. That's the reason you cannot match the taste of this amazing new "patented flavor" bread. Which has already taken the place of ordinary white bread in many thousands of American homes. For these two reasons:

1. Because it brings more of the rich, natural flavor of wheat full-ripened in the sun than white bread robbed of Nature's bounty. Thus, is better for taste.
2. Because it contains over twice the Vitamin B_1 and 50% more natural minerals than any white bread deficient in these essential health elements. Thus, is better for you.

You can see the difference at once. Gone is the chalk-white look of the ordinary baker's bread. Instead, this new "patented flavor" kind has the color of the cream on the top of the bottle of milk.

A Remarkable Discovery

Everybody knows the trouble with ordinary white bread. Made from flour bled white on the miller's stone to make a whiter loaf. Then Theodore Earle patented his discovery (U. S. Pat. Nos. 2143306, 2232697, 2155219, 2232696). And here is the secret of "patented flavor."

ONLY WONDER BREAD HAS "PATENTED FLAVOR"

Because Only Wonder Bread Is Made This Way From Earle Patented Process Flour Under U. S. Pat. Nos. 2143306, 2232697, 2155219, 2232696

By removing the bad-tasting outer skin of the grain, you get this richer, better tasting loaf. A bread the color of cream; tender in texture and crust. And with more natural vitamins and minerals.

To obtain this amazing new "patented flavor" loaf—ask your grocer for the new Wonder Bread. And see for yourself why women everywhere are quitting ordinary white bread for this new kind at the rate of over 5,000 a week now.

A Great Thrill

Most people are astonished and thrilled by their first taste of this new "patented flavor" Wonder Bread. Not the flat insipid flavor of the usual chalk-white kind. But refreshingly different! Like the taste of fresh fruit after canned. You'll say it's marvelous!

But discover how much better this new "patented flavor" Wonder Bread tastes. Mothers of growing children and wives of men who work should serve it instead of any ordinary vitamin-deficient kind.

Then, too, "patented flavor" Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it and fresh when you eat it. Because slo-baked for lasting freshness—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds.

See how much longer "patented flavor" Wonder Bread stays fresh in the bread box; how much longer sandwiches stay fresh in the lunch box. .

Ask your grocer for the bread with "patented flavor"—the new Wonder Bread—today sure. You, too, will be surprised and thrilled with it.

CHAPTER XIII

It seemed the next day that everything in the Dillingham household was awry. Guy came into the nursery after breakfast with traces of the four scratches still showing on his bronzed cheek and rather glumly kissed Daphne good-bye. He was wearing a raincoat for the rain of the preceeding day had settled into a cold drizzle mixed with snow. As soon as he had gone Daphne went to her closet and got her own raincoat, a bright new red one with an umbrella to match.

"I want to wear my new raincoat to Uncle Paul's studio," she said coaxingly.

When coaxing failed to make an impression on Amy she worked herself into the beginning of a tantrum. Amy managed to ignore the tantrum symptoms but the ignoring went harder than usual because her nerves were on edge with hurt over Paul and Marcia and anger over Frani's insinuations about herself and Guy.

Then at noon Frani looked in for a moment. She was wearing street clothes, a lovely rich red suit lavishly trimmed with silver fox and smart little silver fox turban. But despite heavy make-up she had a strained look.

The telephone rang and Frani took the call in the hallway outside the nursery. Amy tried to busy herself with Daphne but she couldn't help hearing.

"Yes, I'll be there. But I feel—oh, if I could tell you how I feel! I'm completely sunk. Golly, I'm half tight now and it's only noon. . . . Yeah, we fought like cats and dogs. . . . Guy's downtown now in righteous wrath. . . . But I have to be home by 4 o'clock sharp. . . . Yes, a tea, one of those magazine story setups. You know, husband invites business associates to his home. Wife entertains charmingly. Husband gets big order. . . . Yes, people from South America this time. But there's more than husband. There's b r o t h e r. Paul hopes to wangle a commission from Mrs. Bradford Ainslee. I have to be charming for him too. . . . Golly, I wasn't supposed to talk about Paul's prospects. I must be tight!"

When Frani had gone Daphne brought up the subject of the raincoat again "If Mother goes down town without any raincoat I don't see why I can't go out with mine on. Just for a little while. We could climb down to Uncle Paul's studio It wouldn't be raining inside the studio. Why not, Tudor? Why not?"

It took a party, with all the dolls in the nursery invited, to divert her.

* * *

While Daphne took her nap Amy went walking in the rain. She went in the opposite direction from Paul's studio, out the big gates that opened into the Dillingham estate along the road toward the city. Always she had loved walking in the rain, but this was a cold stodgy rain that, beat the sodden leaves to pulp which stuck in gobs to her muddy boots.

A mile from the house a car stopped beside her. The door opened and Paul called, "We didn't see your thumb up, lady, but we thought you might like to ride back to the house."

Guy smiled an invitation over his shoulder.

As they came up the front steps there was Frani waiting at the door again. Or no, she wasn't waiting. She was leaning against the wall just inside with her arms hanging limp.

"Good lord, she's drunk!" Paul said.

Guy said nothing, but Amy saw his mouth tighten.

Frani's smart little fur toque was pushed back on her tangled hair. Her blue eyes were clouded. The lipstick that usually followed the lovely lines of her mouth so carefully was smeared across her cheek.

"H e l l o," she said. "Hello, where've you been?"

"We've just come home from downtown—that is Paul and I have," Guy said. "We wanted to be home in time for the tea."

"Tea?" Frani began to laugh. "You've been to a tea? How did Miss Tudor get there? That's awfully funny. Do you expect me to believe that . . . where was the tea?"

"I'm speaking of our tea," Guy explained patiently. "Don't you remember? We're having Senor and Senora Floripe?"

"Oh yes, Senor and Senora. I like Senors. Come on. Let's go"

Guy touched her arm gently. "Come on, Frani, let's go upstairs. You'll have to get ready."

"No," she said shaking him off. "No, I'm ready now. Look, I can blow my hair so it looks nice. Look!"

She puffed out her cheeks and began blowing the vagrant dark strands upward.

But Guy persisted. "You aren't ready. Your suit's mussed and you haven't taken your hat off."

She became dramatic then. "Oh, so you don't like my hat! You don't like my new hat! My new fall hat. Well, well, well! You like Amy Tudor and she hasn't any hat on at all. Her hair is all wet. 'The wind and the rain in her hair'," she half sang. "But you don't like your wife's hat."

Guy's face was white now, but there was no unkindness in it—only alarm and worry. Paul flung his arm about Frani's shoulder and with his most winning smile he declared, "All right, old kidder. If you won't go upstairs come on into the study and I'll tell you my idea of what I want to do this afternoon."

Behind his back he waved his hand as an indication that Guy was to stand back. Guy obeyed and Paul steered Frani toward the small family room. As they were about to enter Frani slid limply from his arm to the floor and lay inert. Guy would have gone to her assistance, but again Paul motioned him back.

"You dumb dope," he said to Frani. "Here, I'll help you to the davenport."

Then from upstairs Daphne called, "Tudor. To-oo-dor."

"Go to her," Guy begged.

Amy had just got Daphne buttoned into a fresh dress and was about to settle down before the wood fire that crackled in the Dutch fireplace when Guy and Paul came into the nursery.

They looked embarrassed and worried.

"We had invited guests to a tea," Guy began. "And now Frani is—she's—"

"She's passed out completely," Paul put in with brotherly bluntness. "She's on the davenport in the study dead to the world. She'll never know whether there's a party or not. The butler's sick. Frani's a maid short."

"Some one will have to take charge, and sort of help meet the guests," Guy said. "We wondered—"

"If Miss Fairbairne will do that I'll help in the kitchen," Amy suggested quickly.

"Marcia went down to Louisville this morning," Paul said.

"If you'd be hostess," Guy said.

"Don't begin objecting," Paul commanded. "There isn't time. Get into your glad rags."

"We would appreciate it if you would," Guy said gravely.

Daphne, they decided, would have to stay with Margaret in the kitchen. But Amy remembered how Daphne had begged to be allowed to go out in her new raincoat; so Guy took her for a walk in the garden while Amy dressed. She was still confused by this new obligation, but she told herself that after all she was acting as a social secretary.

But no social secretary ever achieved the effect Amy unintentionally did as she greeted the guests in the great living room. Gold and brown it was—with golden brocade on its walls and carved brown paneling. And gold and brown was Amy—a brown velvet dress, long gold brown hair brushed smooth to its tipped ends, no touch of contrast about her anywhere, no flower or ornament. That was what made her the most conspicuous woman in the room.

Paul whispered to her, "You look like a lovely golden moth. When we're rich I'm going to buy you amber things to wear."

Guy smiled his approval.

Mrs. Bradford Ainslee, whose name Amy remembered as that of the woman from whom Paul hoped to receive a commission, beamed on Amy and said, "My dear, one of my cousins in Virginia married a Tudor from North Carolina."

When Amy told her promptly that she was acting as governess in the household Mrs. Ainslee lifted her arched eyebrows and said, "So many of our fine American girls choose to earn their own living nowadays." Then she remarked apropos of nothing, "Guy and my son are old friends. I knew Guy's mother back in Massachusetts. Little puff ball of a woman—but a fine person."

"Guy," she called. "I'd like to have Miss Tudor bring Daphne over to see me soon."

"Said Daphne is walking in the garden in the rain now," Guy told her. And he explained to Amy, "I told her she could go to the end of the path and back twice. Is that all right?"

Senor Floripe joined them at that moment, "I suspect your wife is always right," he declared rolling a rougish dark eye at Amy, "It's a fine thing to be married to the right woman."

Guy left them abruptly with a muttered excuse. Mrs. Ainslee looked immensely amused. Paul looked shocked and a little angry. The feeling of that moment lingered after the guests had left when Paul and Guy attempted to express their apreciation to Amy.

"Mrs. Ainslee likes you," Paul said stiffly. "If I actually do get the commission it'll be—"

He was interrupted by the entrance of Margaret, her big bovine rolling with fear.

"We can't find Daphne," she announced.

"She's probably about the house," Guy said carelessly.

"But she isn't," Margaret's voice broke. "We've looked everywhere. All of us. And we can't find her. We didn't tell you because we thought we would find her. But she isn't in this house."

"When did you see her last?" Guy asked sharply.

"About 4:30."

They all looked at the clock over the living-room mantelpiece. Six-thirty, it recorded. Then they listened to the lash of the rain against the dark window panes and the moan of rising wind.

THEATERS

Comedy Continues.

The two zanies of filmland, Abbott and Costello, find a price on their heads in "Pardon My Sarong," their new comedy showing at the Ohio. Most of the action takes place on an uncharted South Sea island where the natives are in the clutches of an unscrupulous white man. The comedians arrive there through chance and not choice and add to the general excitement when a volcano must be appeased. Virginia Bruce and Robert Paige provide the romance and the Four Ink Spots furnish lively entertainment.

Air Thriller.

An ace of the first World war and his aviator son of the current conflict furnish the thrills in "Flight Lieutenant," the Madison attraction, with Pat O'Brien and Glenn Ford. Ford has the role of an air cadet, who eager to square his father, banished from military service because of a tragic mistake, accepts a difficult assignment. Evelyn Keyes, Jonathan Hale and Minor Watson are in the cast. "Blondie For Victory," with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake, is the second attraction.

Autry Western.

Gene Autry's "Call of the Canyon," with Smiley Burnette heads the bill at the Ritz. It's a first-run locally and is supplemented by Alfred Hitchcock's "Saboteur," co-starring Priscilla Lane and Robert Cummings. The latter story deals with a young married couple's efforts to track down a band of saboteurs in order to clear the husband's name. Otto Kruger and Alan Baxter are in the cast.

War Comedy.

"The Wife Takes a Flyer," the Park attraction, takes the Nazis for a ride when Franchot Tone as an R. A. F. flyer, stranded in Holland, goes berserk just to save his skin. He poses as the husband of a pretty Hollander, played by Joan Bennett, and gives Allyn Joslyn, as a Nazi officer, a few kicks where they will do the most good. William Gargan and Margaret Lindsay are featured in an adventure mystery, "A Desperate Chance for Ellery Queen."

Ever Feel Guilty About Not Voting?

Have you ever felt a little disgusted with yourself when some politician you didn't approve of got elected and did the wrong thing?

Maybe you sort of eased your conscience by saying to yourself, "Oh, well, he probably would have been elected anyway." Maybe he would have been. Maybe, however, if enough other "putter-offers" had joined you in expressing your opinion, that "wrong fellow" wouldn't have been put in power.

Pretty soon we're going to ask you to do a very simple thing for your own benefit and the benefit of the community. We know that many of us have that unhappy fault of being "putter-offers" when it comes to doing something "as a community." We are all pretty good about doing what has to be done for our own immediate benefit. We get a little careless and are inclined to feel "let George do it" when something is labeled "community." Well, that's why we are repeating and repeating the important fact that the Community Survey is for your immediate personal benefit.

We could send out interviewers and take up your time. We have worked out a way to make it much easier for you. All we ask you to do is to write down 3 words each day for a week and then send in those words each week.

"I am a push-over for a challenge," asserts Mansfield Traveler Manager Red Hamman, "and since Westinghouse does not seem to care for our challenge to a hardball or softball game or both, I am very happy to accept the challenge of Pete Metz and his all-stars for a doubleheader of the same.

"The Travelers are all set to play the Metzmen Sunday afternoon at the Fairground, with the baseball game scheduled at 1:30 to be followed by a softball game between the same teams.

"I think," says Red, "we will have a very interesting afternoon of it."

* * *

Fifteen cents or a pack of cigarets was the admission price for the Westinghouse softball tournament at Lima over the week-end. Both media of exchange went for the same purpose, the cigaret fund for Westinghouse employes in service.

Mansfield Westinghouse fared not so well in the tourney, being eliminated in the first round by Lima 11-3.

"Woe is me," moaned the golfer
With a sob that shook his soul,
"I can't pass the water hazard
On the nineteenth hole."

Al Vogel's bowling league plans for this winter at Colony alleys include afternoon leagues for swing shift workers. "And I'd very gladly put on after midnight leagues for workers who'd like a little recreation before hitting the morning hay," says Al, "if I could get the pin boys."

And there Vogel echoes the wail that's going up from bowling alley operators all over the state. Pin boys for early morning and daytime bowling are hard to get, because they can make much more money in defense plants.

Some of the biggest bowling alleys in Ohio's largest cities aren't opening until 4 o'clock this season, waiting for pin boys to get out of school. And those boys aren't permitted to work late at night.

* * *

Vogel has been surprised at the early interest in bowling this season. In spite of the two-weeks early opening of the alleys, business has been 25 per cent higher than a year ago when the newly refurnished alleys were considered a show place in the city's sport setup.

And it may be a sign of the times as Vogel reports: "I believe nearly 80 per cent of our business at night thus far has been among bowlers of high school age.

"It's a good thing we got our high school and women's leagues well started last season," he opines. Pauline Shively is arranging classes for women beginners, with free instruction.

Schedules have not yet been arranged for any of the leagues, but they are tentatively booked to start rolling the week of Sept. 18.

* * *

Aces are in style this season. Easy Aces maybe.

Joe Heilman, former high school golf team member, sank a hole in one on the Coolridge No. 6 green last week, the second ace of the summer at that layout, and the second on that hole. Pete Zimmerman got the first several weeks ago.

Detroit Falls By Wayside

Tigers Eliminated From American League Race.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Association Press Sports Writer)

ONE by one the also rans are bowing out of even a mathematical chance at the pennants.

The Detroit Tigers dropped by the wayside yesterday, leaving only the first division in the American league still contending with the New York Yankees. The Pittsburgh Pirates may go today, leaving the National league with the same situation, and even the Cincinnati Reds, picked for the pennant by some observers last spring, may meet their doom this week.

The Yankees themselves took care of the disposal of Detroit with an 8-3 triumph.

* * *

The Tigers in the ninth tallied three times on an error and four hits. However, the world champions had provided amply for such an emergency by scoring early and often on a dozen hits, two of them homers each with one aboard.

The Pirates, who are within a game of being eliminated from a pennant chance, were nosed out 5-4 in 11 innings by Brooklyn.

But in the end the Dodgers pushed across the winning run on two singles and a wild throw by Elbie Fletcher to boost their lead over the idle St. Louis Cardinals to 3½ games.

The New York Giants bagged their sixth straight conquest with a 7-6 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

The weak-hitting Reds surprised their followers by also manufacturing a five-run inning and overpowered the Philadelphia Phils 8-1 in a night game. Elmer Riddle pitched five-hit ball and Eric Tipton provided him with an early margin by homering with one on.

* * *

The Boston Red Sox kept within eight games of the Yanks by setting down the St. Louis Browns 8 to 6.

In the day's only other American league action the Chicago White Sox swept a double bill from the Philadelphia Athletics 3-2 and 5-0.

Blues Sneak Into Top Spot

Columbus Drops Down To Third Position.

(By Associated Press)

While mathematicians were figuring how Columbus and Milwaukee stood in the see-saw American Association pennant drive today, Kansas City sneaked out in front.

* * *

This came about last night when the Louisville Colonels enjoyed themselves by pasting a 2 to 1 defeat on the Red Birds. Milwaukee and Kansas City were idle.

* * *

Columbus' defeat created these percentage standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Kansas City	80	66	.548
Milwaukee	78	65	.54545
Columbus	79	66	.54482

All teams go into action tonight with the Blues entertaining the unpredictable Minneapolis Millers; Columbus taking on Indianapolis at home, and Milwaukee playing host to last-place St. Paul.

The Colonels downed Columbus after a ten-inning pitcher's battle between Louis Lucier and the Birds' Red Barrett. Lucier was touched for seven hits while Barrett scattered four, only to lose when his teammate, Third Baseman Johnny Antonelli, failed to cover his base.

The Colonels scored their winning run this way: Lazor doubled and was replaced by Lingua to run the bases. Gilbert bunted down third base line. Barrett fielded the ball and started to throw to third only to see the position vacant. He wheeled and threw to first, but the toss was low and late and allowed Lingua to score.

* * *

The extra-inning contest was No. 74 for the season and broke the league record for overtime games, set in 1910 when 73 were played.

In the only other game last night, Toledo defeated Indianapolis, 1 to 0.

MANSFIELD 'Y' WINS OVER CRESTLINE

Mansfield Y. M. C. A. defeated the Crestline "Y" in a boys' softball game at Crestline yesterday 11-5, although the Mansfielders got only six hits, and Crestline eight.

Crestline will play a return game here Thursday at 10 o'clock at North Lake park.

WILCOX GETS SECOND CHANCE AT TITLE

Norman Wilcox, finalist in last year's News-Journal city tennis tournament in the boys' division, was back in the championship picture in this year's tourney today with a 6-0, 6-0 victory over Charles Alderson.

He will meet the winner of the Butler-Schwarz match for the title.

Bill Talbert Overlooked

Tennis Experts Can't See Brilliant Record.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y.—(INS)—If Ted Schroeder is the favorite to win the national net title, in progress at Forest Hills today what does it make the only man who beat him on grass this season? Just another guy named Billy, is the answer in William Talbert's case.

* * *

Talbert, who idles in the quarter finals today, waiting upon the outcome of the Pancho Segura-Harris Everett match, is just about the most overlooked player in the tournament.

The Cincinnati insurance broker who took up tennis seven years ago, on doctor's orders, is ranked nationally at 10. He has been more active than two of the three higher rating players. Frankie Parker and Gardnar Mulloy. That should give Talbert a better edge in this tournament than anyone save Schroeder.

Billy played superb tennis to clip Schroeder in the Newport final, at a time when Ted was blazing hot. The score was 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 8-6. He beat Segura at Southampton, being skillful enough to pound Pancho's backhand weakness, and yet the Ecuadorean dynamo is more prominently backed by the net Cognoscenti.

ERIN BREWS ENTER NATIONAL TOURNEY

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Fort Wayne Zollner Machines nosed out the Newport (Ky.) Sixth Ward Booster last night, 2-1, to capture the Central regional men's softball title before 2,500 fans.

The Indiana outfit played steady, tight ball behind Murray's three-hit pitching and staved off a last inning rally to win.

Fort Wayne and the Cleveland Erin Brews, which won the girls' title, are now eligible to play in the nationals beginning at Detroit, Sept. 16.

Gentlemen of the Ballet---Grid Dodgers

For all their size and muscle, these two members of the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Professional Football league show considerable agility as they prance over the field at their training camp, Hunt school, Princeton, N. J. The speedy backs are Hal McCullough, who starred for Cornell last season, and Dean McAdams, regular Brooklyn backfield ace.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—That college football season you've been hearing so much about gets under way today with the "official" opening of practice in most sections. . . . If the folks in Washington are serious about cancelling the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia, why not let them play without spectators and make the most of the broadcast that has been sold for $100,000?

SERVICE DEPT.

Hard Luck Tale: Lieut. Eddie Duchin, who was one of the first to contribute to the special army emergency relief fund, had two of those $100 tickets for the Bears-All Stars grid game and he had a date, but he couldn't get leave from the naval training school at Northwestern U.

AGRICULTURAL NOTE.

Larry MacPhail, boss man of the Dodgers, recently won a couple of blue ribbons at a Maryland fair with his Aberdeen Angus cattle. . . . Billy Terry of the Giants has a fine herd of Jerseys. . . . And Leo Durocher, Frank Frisch and Jimmy Dykes have been known to raise a beef now and then.

THIS BEATS THE BAND

When the Elkhart (Tex.) school board ran clear out of candidates for their vacant football coaching job as every man they picked resigned to take another job, they finally handed the task over to the school's band director, W. K. Sides, who had played football in college but never had coached. He will teach band work in the mornings and coach in the afternoon. Wonder what he'll do with his time between the halves?

Bender Tutors Sixty Whippets

SHELBY—Although the smallest school in the North Central Ohio league, the Shelby Whippets have one of the largest football squads out in any of the NCO grid camps. Some 60 candidates have been working out here.

* * *

Under the leadership of Coach Tommy Bender, who came here this year from Logan, the squad is practicing three times daily so that the members can get to at least one practice whether they work or not.

The first practice is held at 10 a. m., the second comes at 2 p. m. while the big drills of the day are scheduled for 6:30 p. m.

With only a short time remaining before the football games start in the latter part of September, Coach Bender has been trying to get the boys in condition and lay the groundwork for a hard driving team this fall by giving fundamental tactics until school starts. Then the entire squad can practice together.

Bender said he hoped to give the squad eight plays this week. So far he has been drilling them on a new shift to be adopted for the first time this year by the Whippets from a T formation.

From other NCO camps, comes reports that Ashland and Marion Harding are the strongest in the league. Ashland has eight veterans back and the same coach, while Marion has a lot of veterans but has had a change in coaches which may retard the team if the system is switched to a new one.

All of the NCO grid squads have started drills by this week.

GOLF PRO JUMPS FROM ARMY TO NAVY

He passed his physical examination here yesterday and will receive his rating Sept. 10.

Newsom Sold To Brooklyn

Bobo Joins Bums in Time For World Series.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK—(AP)—Brooklyn's two-ton baseball ensemble of Leo Durocher and Larry MacPhail becomes a trio today with the arrival of Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsom, one of the American League's most traveled and articulate pitchers.

* * *

Newsom, who has played for 13 clubs in eight leagues, became a Dodger yesterday just 12 hours before the world series player deadline and less than 24 hours after Manager Durocher publicly announced he wasn't worried about the St. Louis Cardinals, now only three and a half games in back of the Dodgers.

In return for Newsom the Washington Senators acquired cash and Jack Kraus, a husky southpaw Brooklyn farmhand spending the summer at Montreal.

It was the second deal of the day for the Senators, who earlier had released Roy Cullenbine to the New York Yankees for cash. Cullenbine was acquired as outfield insurance following Tommy Henrich's enlistment in the coast guard. He also will be eligible for the world series.

The Newsom transfer to Brooklyn will make the third time in a Dodger uniform for the big right-hander who loves nothing better than the spotlight. He came up as rookie in 1929 and immediately won a $25 prize offered by Manager Wilbert Robinson for displaying the best control in 25 pitches at a special target.

Two weeks later he was in the minors again because of wildness. He failed to stick again in 1930 and soon began his moving around among St. Louis, Boston, Washington and Detroit in the American League.

* * *

His best year on a won and lost basis was 1940 when he helped Detroit win the American League pennant with 21 victories and only five defeats. That fall he defeated the Cincinnati Reds twice in the World series but lost to Paul Derringer, 2 to 1, in a third game which came with only one day's rest and less than 24 hours after the death of his father.

In 1938 he equalled the American League record by fanning six consecutive batters, turning the trick at the expense of the New York Yankees.

This year he won 11 and lost 17 with the seventh place Senators.

Charleston Has Four-Game Lead

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—The Charleston Senators hit the Mid-Atlantic league's stretch drive with a four-game lead today, compiled partly from a double triumph over Springfield last night while the second-place Dayton Ducks were losing to Erie.

* * *

Canton and Zanesville meanwhile battled 18 innings—the longest Mid-A game of the season—before Canton was able to edge out a 5 to 4 victory in its own park. A walk with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth extra frame finally decided the issue.

* * *

The season closes with doubleheaders in all parks next Monday. Save one long day in June, when Erie slipped into the front row, Charleston has led the league since May 11.

The Senators defeated Springfield 1 to 0 and 9 to 1, while Erie was nosing out the Ducks 3 to 2 in 10 innings.

Grid Tickets Placed on Sale

Tygers Stage Opening Practice Session Today.

While Mansfield high school's gridiron Tygers of 1942 were going through their first practice session this morning on the practice lot back of Stadium field, George Sherman, athletic department treasurer, announced the opening of the season ticket sale for the Tygers' home games.

* * *

The tickets go on sale this afternoon at Tawe's pharmacy, Mansfield Athletic Supply and Yuncker Brothers, and also may be obtained from coaches Paul Snyder, Harry Mehock and Vern Hoffman, supertintendent of schools W. L. Miller, president of the school board H. W. Arlin, and from Sherman.

* * *

"There was some complaint last year that choice seats were placed in the hands of a few, and that the general public did not have a chance at them," Sherman said. "Whether or not this was true, there was the feeling that this was the case, and we have made a special effort this year to see that choice seats are evenly distributed among those having the tickets for sale, and it will be a case of first come, first served."

Season ticket sale will be more in the form of reserved seat insurance for Mansfield football fans for all games, rather than a great saving in money. The saving amounts to only 50 cents over the season, but the fans will be sure of having their seats for each and every game, and with Massillon coming here this fall this is something worth considering.

The season tickets sell for $3.75 for the six home games. Single game tickets will sell for 65 cents each for every game except Massillon which will be one dollar. All prices include tax, and it is the tax which is responsible for the slight increase in prices this year.

* * *

Last year season tickets were sold, and so were tickets for the first couple games, before the tax went into effect.

Flockenzier Wins Tourney

Cops Caddy Crown In Westbrook Tournament.

"Flick" Flockenzier, member of last spring's Mansfield high school golf team, yesterday won the caddy championship at Westbrook Country club, defeating Leo Kleshinski 5-4 in the finals of the first flight.

* * *

Dick Kleshinski won the second flight by edging "Peanuts" Baker 1 up in 19 holes, while Al Mulberry copped the third flight through default by Bob Eyers.

Fourth flight went to D. Shivinski with a 2-1 victory over Bob Kasper, while Paul Zartman took the fifth flight 2-1 over George Smollen.

Club members contributed $75 toward the caddy tournament prize list, and Pro Tom Raklets also donated, making nearly $100 in golf merchandise offered as prizes.

GRIDDER HURT

BUCYRUS — Rod Teets, guard with the Bucyrus high school Redmen, was missing from the line up in the scrimmages at Lane street field Monday due to an injury received when he was struck by a hit skip motorist at Galion Saturday night. Teets is recovering at his home fom a head laceration which required the attention of a physician at Galion City hospital.

STARS LOSE AGAIN

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)—Tommy Thompson and Bob Priestly, combining excellent passing and receiving, led the Philadelphia Eagles to a 16-8 victory over Bob Zuppke's college All-Stars before 75,000 spectators last night.

CIGARET RACKET CAUSES RUMPUS

LONDON —(INS)— Cigarets and tobacco sent by friends and relatives of American, Canadian and other Dominion troops serving in Britain are causing a minor rumpus here.

The trouble arises from the fact that cigarets sent as gifts are duty free. The recipients are selling them to British troops at a profit.

Military authorities are to take steps to prevent this practice from developing into a racket.

IRREGULARITY PERSISTS ON STOCK MARKET

Westinghouse Included Among Issues With Fractional Losses on Board.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Slightly irregular tendencies persisted in today's early stock market transactions.

Up a shade at a quiet opening were Goodyear, Chrysler and Standard Oil (NJ). Minor losses were posted for Kennecott, U. S. Steel and Westinghouse.

Those watching public spending trends for market clues studied the summary of the department of commerce disclosing July sales by the country's retail stores amounted to $4,389,000,000, a decrease of only 1 per cent from June and 3 per cent from the 1941 July figure.

Noted was the federal reserve compilation showing a further drop in business loans. Member banks in 101 cities for the week ended last Wednesday reported a fall in lending to commerce, industry and agriculture of $47,000,000. Continued recession in this barometer was caused mainly by large repayments of non-defense debts.

FACE HEAVIER DRAFT CALLS

inductions, Hershey said, "with the ultimate objective of calling men from the small town and from the city on an approximately uniform basis."

Hershey reiterated a selective service policy to "follow the order of dependency deferments" established in the dependents allowance act.

Registrants having wives and children, or children alone, with whom a "bonafide home" is maintained, and who were married before Dec. 8, 1941, at a time when selection for service was not imminent, will not be placed in class 1-A, available for immediate induction, Hershey assured.

He declared, however, that as needs for occupational deferments expire, single men and others not conforming to the type currently being inducted, will be called.

Local boards were instructed to begin promptly the reconsideration of registrants in classes 3-A and 3-B who have collateral dependents.

Registrants with collateral dependents, Hershey said, are to be inducted ahead of men who maintain bona fide family homes.

Collateral dependents, include wives or children with whom the registrant does not maintain a family relationship, and other persons supported by him.

Hershey declared that of registrants between 18 and 20 years "only those who have actually reached their 20th birthday are subject to call until such time as congress may modify the law."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) predicted that congress would be called upon this fall to make 18 and 19-year-old registrants subject to the draft.

Demands Public Cure War-Labor Problem

BULLETIN

AKRON—(INS)—A CIO strike of 350 army truck tire builders forced 900 curers and inspectors out of work today at Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

AKRON —(INS)— Charging the war labor board "is a detriment of real production," William O'Neil, president of General Tire and Rubber company, called upon the "public" today to "cure" the war-labor problem as a strike of 350 CIO truck tire builders at Goodyear Tire and Rubber company went into its second day.

"When, with six hours a day, workers in certain departments are actually turning out only five hours, something is vitally wrong and public knowledge of the situation can cure it. We have hesitated many months before bringing this to light. We have talked to labor leaders at our plant and to representatives of the international union. We have conducted rallies. But nothing has happened.

"One of the reasons lies with the war labor board. It is a detriment to real production," O'Neil asserted, adding that some members of the board are "college professors . . . theorists."

While Sherman Dalrymple, president of the CIO-United Rubber Workers of America, charged manufacturers with expecting workers to "keep up the same rate on changed war jobs as they did on the old jobs," only 19 men remained on duty in Goodyear's truck tire department, the others refusing to work an eight hour day.

Although the walkout was called "unauthorized," the union has engaged in a long-standing dispute with rubber company officials over the six-hour day. The strikers claimed the six-hour day is sufficient with the amount of labor available, while industry heads maintain tire builders must work eight hours to make their tire quota.
